Like Niagara Falls, this great Exposition, which has taken years to prepare, cannot be adequately described, but we have literature on its wonders which will be sent to you on application.

SEVEN WEEKS IN ALL.

Approximately from Sydney to San Francisco and back occupies 7 weeks—5 at sea, 2 on shore. In these 2 weeks you can see the Exposition, the Yosemite Valley, the Grand Canyon, Rocky Mts., etc. No other line has so fast a time-table; but our return tickets are interchangeable with the other trans-Pacific Companies. Our route is via Honolulu going; Honolulu and Samoa returning.

ALWAYS PAY CASH.

A REDUCTION in the COST of LIVING by CHEAPENING of SUPPLIES seems to be a POPULAR objective among POLITICIANS, but, in the OPINION of MANY folk, their EFFORTS, no matter how WELL DIRECTED, appear to be LITTLE more SUCCESSFUL than the SEARCH for the ELUSIVE PIMPERNELL.

The ONE BIG MEANS of REDUCING the COST of EVERYTHING to the CONSUMER, says a DEEP-THINKING commercial man, is to INDUCE EVERYONE to GO TO THE SHOP for WHAT they WANT and PAY CASH.

As SPOT CASH TRADERS, we OFFER the BEST the WORLD PRODUCES, enabling PATRONS who pay SPOT CASH to MATERIALLY REDUCE the COST of LIVING and SAVE no END of MONEY through the AGENCY of

ANTHONY HORDERNS' FAMOUS LOW PRICES.

As an EXAMPLE we QUOTE LADIES' HOSIERY, INSPECTION and COMPARISON will DEMONSTRATE that these GOODS offer FAR and AWAY the BEST VALUE in the LAND.

MACHINERY.

TO USERS OF HYDRAULIC LIFTS.

We have obtained the sole rights for a patented Rotary Variable High-pressure Pump, specially designed to enable Hydraulic Lift-owners to pump their own water with Electric Power. No accumulator is required; the pump delivery is automatically adjusted to the load to be raised, and many of the advantages of the Electric Lift are obtained at a low capital cost, and without any alteration to your existing machinery. A very small floor space is sufficient, and, as electricity is much cheaper than the Hydraulic Power Company's Water, a considerable saving is apparent.

AMUSEMENTS.

TO-DAY'S NEW SPECIALS.
CRYSTAL PALACE.

The producers of "Vendetta" have secured another triumph in "THE NAKED TRUTH," to-day's big 3-reel drama of the Parisian Latin quarter, which stars the beautiful Lida Borelli, Europe's foremost stage favourite, making her debut in films. And what an actress she is! In her face is mirrored every emotion through which she passes during those last sad hours as the artist's wife, when the dawning comprehension of her husband's infidelity reduces her to the verge of madness determines her to win him from the women to whose subtle fascinations he has succumbed. The hours of screening "The Naked Truth" are 11.32 a.m., 1.10, 3.6, 4.53, 6.40, and 8.27 p.m. Another interesting feature is the scenic, "FROM SUEZ TO CONSTANTINOPLE."

THE ESCAPE, COMING NEXT MONDAY.
On Monday next we will screen the big Mutual feature, "THE ESCAPE," adapted from Paul Armstrong's famous drama. It is a seven-reel story of the slums of New York that will sear its way into your hearts. Nothing more powerful has ever been produced on stage or screen.

LYRIC THEATRE.
An absorbing story of the eternal triangle—two men and a woman and again two women and a man—is told in the Swedish Biograph Co.'s four-reel film, "THE HALF BREED." Promising to return to Marianne, Captain Stahl left for the little republic to make good for her sake. But the warm southern glow kindled within him the flame of love for the daughter of the rebel chief, and when their happiness was greatest, Marianne arrived. The unravelling of those tangled threads is at times exciting, at times pathetic, and at times tragic, and always interesting.

COLONIAL THEATRE.
The Davison Co. have issued a series of detective yarns more exciting, more thrilling, than any of the Sherlock Holmes stories. They have visualised one of the most daring exploits of SEXTON BLAKE, the greatest criminal investigator of modern fiction, in "THE MYSTERY OF THE DIAMOND BELT." Through his ingenuity Blake smashes the gang of jewel thieves, and saves the criminal's daughter from disgrace.

EMPRESS THEATRE.
Charles Murray, the comedian who made good in "The Plumber," gets a dozen laughs—and drinks—a minute in "HOGAN'S ANNUAL SPREE," to-day's new Keystone comedy. Compared with Hogan's bender, an Australian bullocky's jamboree is as tame as a Sewing Guild tea-meeting. "HIS WIFE AND HIS WORK," 2-reel Vitagraph drama, is another good feature.

"BEACON FIRES."

A STORY OF THE GREAT ARMADA.

BY MORICE GERARD.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

Her determination was speedily made up, for her courage was high. She crossed to a cupboard in the wall, and took out a long thick cloak, which would cover her from her shoulders to her ankles, she put this on, blew out one of the candles, and left the room.

After closing the door she stood listening, wondering if anyone else in the house had heard the horseman passing, and been aroused, as she had been, to question the meaning of the sound.

The floor in which her bedroom was placed ran round the staircase, with doors on either side; opposite to her was the room occupied by her mother. It was unlikely that anyone sleeping on that side would have been awakened. Bess's own maid was the only occupant of a room looking out seawards.

A door opened softly. Bess turned towards it, holding up the candle, which she had carried into the passage. Her particular attendant, Grace Cumberledge, peeped out, with a white face, dressed only in her night attire. Bess put up her hand to indicate caution and silence. She walked along the landing, and spoke to Grace.

"You heard someone ride past just now?"

"I thought I did, mistress."

"I was standing at my window, and saw the top of his hat over the wall."

"It is a dangerous path at night. I wonder who he can be. Not many gentlemen dare walk it, much less ride it, after nightfall." Then Grace noticed that her young mistress had put on an out-of-door wrap. "You are not going out, dearie, for certain?"

"Yes, I am. I mean to find out who the rider is, and what he is doing. He is up to no good, of that I am certain."

"Oh, but, mistress, are you not afraid?"

"Afraid! No."

"Shall I come with you?" It was indeed a proof of the old servant's love to make the offer.

"No, but put on your things, and come down to fasten the door after me. When I knock and call, let me in again. No one else, mind."

The conversation was carried on in a whisper. The maid went back to her room. With soft footfalls Bess descended the staircase. She put the candlestick down on the high mantelshelf in the hall. A fire had been burning in the hearthplace during the day, and still showed red embers of wood and peat. Bess, for a moment held out her hands to warm them, then she walked to the door, unfastened the bolts, and went out into the night.

She drew her wrap closely round her, for the air was keen and piercing. Overhead a wrack of clouds was being driven across the sky, while a crescent moon was fitfully showing itself whenever the clouds left it unobscured.

The booming of the sea was very distinct now, while on the other side, over the moor, intense silence reigned.

CHAPTER III.

PLYMOUTH PORT.

The great port of the west, second only to Bristol in size and importance, but with an interest attaching to it which even its rival at the mouth of the Severn could not achieve, has seen some wonderful comings and goings in the course of its thousand years of history.

Never perhaps, however, has it stood for so much in the eyes of all England as it did during those spring and early summer months of the annus mirabilis 1588.

The great Armada had been lying in wait for the favourable opportunity of invading England in Spanish ports for many months. Never before in the history of the world had such a formidable fleet been gathered together, such mighty galleons, such a threatening array of great guns, such vast supplies of food an dammunition, so many officers of noble rank, Spanish grandees, Knights of Portugal and Italy, while every ship in that contingent carried its more than ample complement not merely of sailors, but of seasoned soldiers, veterans who had won their spurs in the Low Countries, or in the New World.

During that month of June Plymouth was waiting with every possibility of bearing the brunt of the battle, of being the first point of attack by the forces of the enemy.

The storms which rage round the granite rocks of Scilly and Cornwall are proverbial for their strength and ferocity, but as a rule with the coming of late spring the waves both of the Atlantic and of the English Channel have expended their fury. Truce is called between the opposing forces of sea and land, between the great rollers surging in from far Atlantic and the beetling crags of the serried coast of Cornwall and Devon.

That year had proved an exception, the weather instead of improving as the months of winter trod on the heels of spring, and spring itself began to yield a place to summer, had rather grown worse. It was as cold as mid-winter, stormy as any March, when mid-summer-day drew on. Rain drove in the teeth of the wind day after day, and mingled with the salt spray beating on the faces of men, aye, and women, too, who guarded those western shores, and looked out with eager trained eyes for any indications of the coming of that formidable array. It was to bear the flag of Spain, and side by side with it the red Maltese Cross. The latter indicated that this was no mere expedition for glory or conquest, but the onward march of a host of crusaders, blessed by Pope and priest for the compulsory salvation of a nation which had thrown off the allegiance of the only true Church. As the days wore on great ships came into the Hamoaze, each with its flotilla of smaller vessels, some of them Queen's ships, but the majority merchant-vessels, made ready for fighting, contributed by every southern port from Thames to Avon, from London to Bristol.

Near the mouth of the magnificent harbour was moored the Ark Royal, the flagship of Lord Howard of Effingham; here were The Rainbow, the Antelope, the Vanguard—ships of those redoubted Admirals, Lord Henry Seymour, Sir Henry Palmer, and Sir William Winter; here, above all, was Sir Francis Drake, the greatest captain of the age, in the Revenge.

Daily the captains met in conference, either on the Ark Royal or in the look-out station, which commanded the centre of the Hoe. Now and again a hoy or a pinnace running into harbour received a boat manned by sailors from the Lord High Admiral's ship to inquire whether the new-comer had sighted any suspicious sails or met with any evidence of the enemy's approach.

Of fear there was not a trace in those bold hearts or in the outlook of these brave eyes, but of anxiety there was not a little, and it grew rather than abated as the days wore on.

It was not occasioned by the plans of the King of Spain or of his Naval Commander-in-Chief, the Duke of Medina Sidonia, or by the plotting and machinations of the enemies of England, traitors within the camp, who lurked hidden like earthworms, but occasionally coming to the surface, with some fell intent, in every port.

Surely never was there such an irony of history that the anxiety of Howard and Drake, of Frobisher and Hawkins, Fenner, Seymour, and the rest was caused by the very Power whose flag they bore aloft, whose commands they obeyed, and for whose life and liberty they were prepared to fight, and, if needs be, die.

Elizabeth herself was the source from which all their disturbance arose, their nights of anxiety, their days of warning, appeal, and remonstrance. What they needed was the absolute necessities of a fleet in being, namely, ammunition and food; not a ship in the fleet had a week's supply of either, and if it had not been that the merchants of the west and the squires of broad acres in Devon, Somerset, Dorset, and Cornwall stripped themselves of the harvesting of the previous year, and emptied their granaries to feed the brave men assembled at Plymouth, it would, indeed, have gone hardly with the sailors on board those vessels anchored in the Hamoaze.

No problem in the long story of English history has proved so difficult of solution as the conduct of the Queen of England during that year and the preceding one.

Elizabeth kept the fleets which guarded her coasts starving for food, the guns hungry for ammunition, which was doled out to them in miserable and meagre fashion. Yet the Queen was rich; her treasury was full to overflowing; and if this had not been the case her subjects, led and stimulated by the patriotic spirit which has ever dominated the city of London, would have come forward eagerly with all the supplies the occasion demanded. It was not a question of the hesitancy or peculation of Ministers. Burleigh, Walsingham, the two secretaries of State, were absolutely above suspicion, giving of their own in the Queen's service, daily growing poorer. The appeals which constantly reached her from her chosen Admirals were seconded in the Council Chamber by the Ministers of State; no part of the burden can be laid on the shoulders of her advisers.

But Elizabeth was a Tudor, a daughter of her headstrong sire; no constitutional monarch she, but a veritable ruler, making her will felt not merely throughout her realm, but wherever her servants were to be found on the Continent, in the West Indies, or on the high seas.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

TARGET PRACTICE AT RANDWICK.

On every hand there is evidence of growing activity on the part of newly-formed rifle clubs with regard to actual shooting arrangements. Every day last week the Randwick range was in use, and applications for targets during the week days are multiplying.

The new clubs to lead the way in the use of the range during week days are Rose Bay Golf, Registrar-General's and Lands Departments, and Colonial Sugar Company. The Press Club hopes to have squads of members on the range very soon. This club has decided that its members will have a good practical knowledge of the parts and the handling of their rifles before going on to the range. This course will save a lot of time, and incidentally a good deal of ammunition, when the pressmen get down on the mounds.

Colonel Wallack's announcement at Bankstown last week that the Defence Department had chosen a site for and intended to push ahead at once with a new rifle range for that district is good news. Even one more large, well-equipped range will make a big difference, and if the military authorities will only meet the wishes of the N.R.A., and leave Randwick to the rifle clubs, doing all regimental shooting elsewhere, the enthusiasm of the city men who are now giving their time to drill will be given a decided fillip.

There was a good muster of clubs at Randwick on Saturday. The elements were in a cantankerous mood, and marksmen had to bring all their sighting and windage knowledge to bear to find the bulls-eye. Nevertheless excellent scores were recorded. The long ranges were tackled by several clubs, and it is a pleasing feature that the best target of the afternoon was riddled from the 900yds mound.

Randwick Literary Institute Club took 35 members out to the 900yds range, the conditions of the shoot being 14 shots in two stages. F. Greer shot remarkably well. His first stage of seven shots produced a "possible," and his club mates had visions of a performance worthy of being "chaired" at a prize meeting. But, although he missed the "bull" twice in the second stage, it only served to enhance the merit of the first seven bulls-eyes, as it disclosed the trickiness of the wind. One of his second-stage shots just missed the "bull," and scored an inner at "nine o'clock." Marksmanship aspirants can get a good deal of encouragement from meditating a bulls-eye at 900yds on a windy day, riddled with 12 bullets out of 14 fired. The score of 35, 32—67, out of a possible of 70, is not often beaten in a practice shoot from the long range. Ten other members of the same club scored 60 and over.

The Parramatta Club, last year's metropolitan champions, also took a good muster out to the 900 yards mound, for 14 shots in two stages. S. Holliday, with 31, 34—65, out of the possible 70, and E. Worral, with 33, 32—65, top-scored, but were run very close by F. Turton with 64, and A. J. Pina with 63. The Yorkshire Society Club essayed the limit of 1000 yards, 14 shots in two stages, possible 70. E. Garnett, 32, 25—67, did best, closely followed by W. Coulter, with 25, 31—66.

The difficult 700 yards mound was occupied by several clubs. Sydney Club had a good muster, 14 shots in two stages, and was led in the swing by R. Edmonds, with 29, 33—62, and H. Battishall, with 30, 32—62, out of a possible 70. The average for the first 18 scores in this club's shoot was a fraction over 56, and is well worth noting.

Off the same mound the Police and Tramway clubs shot an interclub match. The conditions were 12 men a side, best ten scores to count, 12 consecutive shots each, possible 60. The police team put up an aggregate of 481 points for its best ten shots, and won the match by five points, the tramway men's best ten aggregating 476. A. A. M'Knight, for the policemen, took the laurels of the match with 54, while W. Southwell led the tramway team with 52.

Shooting in the third club shoot of the March quarter for Rockdale Club, P. Niven and W. J. Faux each found the "bull" ten times out of their 14 shots, in two stages at 600 yards. The former's score read 33, 33—66, out of the possible 70, and the latter's 34, 32—66. The club had a good muster down, including a fair number of tyros, who made up for their inability to hit the centre of the target, or to hit the target at all sometimes, by their earnest efforts to assimilate the instructions given them. The same mound accommodated the Metropolitan Railways Club and the South African Soldiers' Club. For the railway employees, W. P. Bedwell did best with a score of 30, 31—61, 70 being the possible. Sergeant Devine put up 29, 28—57 under the same conditions.

The 21st Regiment Club fired the final club shoot of the March quarter, under mixed conditions, seven shots each at 500 and 600 yards. Lieutenant R. Naghten led the A grade marksmen of his club, scoring 33 at 500 yards, and 30 at 600 yards, the possible being 35 in each case. B grade scores were headed by Lieutenant W. J. Marry, with 32 at 500 yards, and 29 at 600 yards.

The favourite 500 yards mound was occupied by the Clyde Engineering Works Club, for whom H. Worrall put up a score of 33, 34—67, out of a possible 70, with his 14 shots in two stages. He was closely followed by J. P. von Gelder, with 32, 34—66.

The 39th Battalion Militia Club's second shoot of the March quarter was seven shots each at 200 and 300 yards. R. S. M. Juleff headed the list with 33, 28—61.

COAL MINERS.

THE NEW ORGANISATION.

COMMON OWNERSHIP.

The Australasian Coal and Shale Employees' Association, formed for the purpose of amalgamating all the coal-mining unions throughout Australasia into one big organisation, has now been launched.

All the mining districts in the Eastern States, including Tasmania, are represented, and later on it is proposed to extend activities to Western Australia and New Zealand.

The objects of the federation, as set forth in a syllabus to be issued shortly by the executive, are as follows:—

(a) To improve the condition and protect the interests of the members of the federation, by increasing the proportionate share of the wealth to the workers, and endeavouring to educate for the complete abolition of the present wage system and the substitution of the common ownership of the means of production.

(b) To discuss, consider, and put into force when approved, any scheme for the better guidance and extension of Australasian industrial organisation.

(c) To prevent, if possible, by conference or otherwise, any threatened cessation of work, and to endeavour by conciliatory measures to uphold the rules of the federation, failing which, to provide ways and means for the support of the district involved.

(d) To secure the direct representation of labour in Parliament, and to promote such legislative reforms as will ensure industrial justice to Australasian workers.

(e) To ensure a better advocacy of the principals and rights of Labour, through a press owned and controlled by the federation.

(f) To secure that the recognised working hours for all employees shall not exceed eight hours bank to bank on the first five days of the week (work of actual necessity excepted); when such work is required to be performed in excess of the hereinbefore stated days or hours, time and a half shall be paid for ordinary working days, and double time for Sundays and holidays.

A central council is to be elected, comprising president, vice-president, and secretary, and representatives from the various districts, in proportion to their membership. The subscription is to be sixpence a quarter on the financial membership, but power to raise this amount to one shilling is reserved under the rules, and any district failing to pay on within a given time may be fined a sum not exceeeding £50. Three months' notice is required of any district wishing to withdraw from the federation, and dues must be paid up to the date of the expiration of that notice. A four-fifths majority vote of the representatives of the districts is necessary for the dissolution of the federation.

The rules also require that each district shall submit any dispute likely to involve general aid to the central council, and all district settlements or agreements, before being finally accepted, must be forwarded to the council for endorsement or rejection.

"Observer" states that the electric lights in the Domain are not extinguished till about 8 a.m. He points out that the sun rises now at 5.48 a.m., and says there is no need to keep the lights going after that hour.

"BOUGHT AND PAID FOR."

It is impossible to blink the fact that George H. Broadhurst's comedy-drama "Bought and Paid For" has built its sensational success in New York, London, and many great cities of the English-speaking world, upon the ugly sexual problem brutally expressed in the second act. The question of the play is not so much, "Did she do right in leaving home?" as "To what extremes of insolent proprietorship can a drunken husband go towards his wife without protest from a latter-day audience?" The answer afforded on Saturday night at the Criterion Theatre seemed to be that almost anything will prove acceptable that is covered by the powerful art of stage-favourites. At the same time, it doubtless discloses an occasional canker spot in the humblest as in the most luxurious homes.

Miss Muriel Starr's return was welcomed with effervescent feminine cheers from the gallery, but though that actress had her moments both of pathos and intensity, the main honours of the first night rested with Mr. Charles A. Millward. He drew with a firm, sure hand, the not unattractive portrait of Robert Stafford. Stafford is an American railway magnate and millionaire, who has fallen in love with a poor typist and telephone girl. He has himself for long past set his feet on the road that leads to the City of Big Things, and has discovered that money means power, but that only a woman can make a home. He has accordingly invited Virginia Blaine to come to dinner with her vulgar, but lovable, sister Fanny, and the latter's still more vulgar "young man"—James Gilley. Gilley, a conceited little egoist, has an eye upon the promotion likely to come to him as an ambitious shipping clerk should Virginia accept the great financier, and facetiously remarks, "If you can't marry a man as rich as Mr. Stafford, take my advice, and consult a heart-specialist." There is a proposal scene prettily acted by Mr. Millward and Miss Starr; he frank and manly, she uncertain and shy. Then the Japanese valet, a character perfectly acted by Mr. Leonard Stephens, draws the curtains which conceal an alcove with its brilliantly lighted table at the back. But Stafford, before all are seated, drains a bumper to "Virginia, my future bride."

Two years later the curtain rises upon the return of Virginia Stafford and the Gilleys (now married) from the opera to her elegant boudoir in an expensive flat. The heroine confides to her sister the awful secret of her married life—that Stafford, usually tender and respectful, sometimes comes home intoxicated, and then is transformed into "a stranger inflamed with liquor, who has her in his power, and treats her as a slave 'bought and paid for.'" In a few minutes, Stafford, all virtue and aestheticism, staggers in, holding a long-stalked white carnation in his hand, "the white flower of a blameless life," also in his button-hole, lurches up to his wife with an uxorious leer, and greets her with the words, "You look as sweet as a peach." He then proceeds in the most amusing fashion to explain to poor Jimsie that his 150 dollars a week is exactly 10 times what the youth is worth. Mr. Millward's suggestion of chuckling intoxication held the audience by reason of the growing suspicion of claws beneath the velvet paw. Miss Starr's glances of nervous terror and half-suppressed disgust showed how keenly Virginia realised that when the brute had finished his comedy with Jimsie, he would turn to tragedy with herself. The climax was reached after the others have retired by his anger at her refusal to join him in more champagne and his fury at daring to have a will of her own. "I don't want to kiss you," she cries; every protestation of love from you is an insult, and I hate you!" His reply, "Would you have married me if I had been poor? No! Then you're bought and paid for!" is followed by a violent struggle. Her hair falls in a torrent over her shoulders as she breaks loose; and when she bangs to and locks her bedroom door he smashes it in with fire-irons, and invades her retreat.

A dramatic situation quite as audacious as this has not hitherto occupied the modern stage of any country, so far as accessible records reveal. The clash of wills between husband and wife was indicated in "A Doll's House" with immense power, but with the most delicate reticence. Only once does Ibsen make his rebellious Nora approach the actual scene of Broadhurst's play. It is where Nora exclaims, "Can you stay here with me tonight when the thought of your friend's death is with us?" Then Torvald Helmer replies, "You are right, dear. Something unlovely has come between us . . . I will go to my room." There seems to be here the germ of the new situation; but with what masterly reticence did Norway's poet-dramatist sip at the distasteful cup which we are now forced to drain to the very dregs. Nevertheless the Criterion audiences of 1891 were inclined to be shocked; those of 1915 applauded the coarse scene to the very echo with the audible comment of "splendid acting."

There is much amusing comedy in the new piece. The four-and-a-half dollars a week philosophy of the fatuous shipping clerk could not have been better voiced than by Mr. William Harrigan, whose air of unconscious vanity was admirable. Miss Dorothy Davies made a successful debut as Fanny, a practical, helpful, sometimes shrewish, yet generally easy-going young woman. These two artists gave the drama its American atmosphere. Miss Gertrude Boswell was clever as the French maid, and Mr. George Chalmers, jun., completed the cast as a waiter. Mr. E. W. Morrison produced the new play.

The flowers presented at the end were freshly at their best, but the unnecessary speeches which followed were faded and forlorn.

THEATRE ROYAL.

Among the many important roles with which Mr. Julius Knight's name is inseparably associated we admittedly prefer Monsieur Beaucaire, and on Saturday night at the Royal the audience exhibited a decided proclivity in the same direction. Considering the trying temperature there was a good house, and the enthusiasm was almost that of a first night, and was probably not anticipated at a mere revival. Mr. Knight was warmly welcomed, and quite a demonstration of satisfaction and goodwill followed the appearance of Miss Irene Browne and Miss Lizette Parkes. Recalls were frequent, and floral offerings at the close of the play emphasised the success of the production. Mr. Knight showed little falling off in his well-known interpretation of the young French nobleman who is travelling incognito in England, and Miss Irene Browne was afforded an excellent chance, which she utilised to the fullest extent in the character of Lady Mary Carlisle, of proving her claim as an emotional actress. She was forceful in the scene at the Pump Room at Bable, where Lady Mary's pride receives a severe blow from the supposed duplicity of Beaucaire. Perhaps her best scene, however, was in the subsequent interview with Beaucaire, when, though still believing him to be an impostor, Lady Mary confesses her love. Miss Lizette Parkes played Lucy Rellerton with all the necessary charm, and the Misses Dorothy Cumming, Alma Phillips, Stella Swifte, Ruby Reynolds, and Florence Leigh also did efficient work. Of the male members of the cast supporting Mr. Knight, Messrs. Frank Harvey (Duke of Winterset), Eardley Turner (Beau Nash), Martin Lewis (Major Molyneaux), Charles Morse (Lord Townbrake), James Hughes (Captain Badger), Leslie Victor (Francois), and H. J. Bentley (Mr. Beckett) materially assisted in the development of a fine performance.

MOSMAN MUSICAL SOCIETY.

Miss Dorrie Ward evoked the delighted applause of a large audience on Saturday, when she made her appearance in the name role of Offenbach's famous opera "La Fille du Tambour Major." It was indeed an auspicious occasion, for it marked the return of the Mosman Musical Society to its natural home in the Mosman Town Hall. It was evident that the society had decided to celebrate the event by a performance which should outshine all previous achievements, and there can be no doubt that Saturday's performance was fully equal, if not superior, to the best of its many predecessors. Acting, singing (both solos and chorus), scenery, and costumes, all served to uphold the reputation which the society has so long enjoyed; while the orchestra, led by Mr. W. J. Grieves, under the able conductorship of Mr. A. H. Norman, as well as Mr. Arthur Hunter's capable stage management, materially contributed to a successful tout ensemble. The finale of the last act, in which the French troops triumphantly enter Milan, headed by the band (composed of members of the Mosman Municipal Band), was particularly effective, and served as an appropriate symbol for the return of the society to the scene of its old-time victories.

Miss Myree Aylward appeared as Claudine, a part in which she was seen to exceptional advantage, especially in her "One, two" song in the second act. Miss Dorrie Ward, in the part of Stella, acted and sang with her usual elan, and the duet between her and the Capitaine Robert, impersonated by Mr. John G. Yuill, "It Must Be Now," was one of the features of the evening. Mr. John Greene acted with much ability the role of Monthabor, the gallant Tambour Major, while Miss Muriel Barton made a stately Duchess Margot, her rich, musical voice and clear enunciation being well displayed. Miss Miriam Brown played Griolet, the cheeky but charming little drummer boy, with successful humour and "gaminerie," while Mr. C. W. J. Buchanan was advantageously placed as the Duca de la Volta. Mr. F. C. Maconochie was also effective as the parvenu Marchese Bambini. The remaining characters were likewise judiciously distributed. "La Fille du Tambour Major" will be played on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings this week.

LILLIPUTIAN REVUE COMPANY.

Miss Sara Collins is producing, in aid of the Red Cross Fund, next Thursday evening, at the Coronation Hall, Bondi Junction, a new entertainment, entitled the Lilliputian Revue Company. This consists of 40 children entirely trained by herself, including Dainty Beryl Alexander, an especially gifted performer, in a lively programme on the lines of "The Follies" and theatrical revues.

TOWN HALL ORGAN RECITAL.

The third act of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" was chosen for the operatic excerpt at the organ recital given by Mr. Ernest Truman, city organist, at the Town Hall on Saturday evening. There was an exceptionally large audience on the occasion. Mr. Truman's rendering was much enjoyed by those present. The second half of the programme included three excerpts from Rossini's "Stabat Mater," including "In Flammatus" and popular concessions in the "Poet and the Peasant" overture, and Michaelis's "Turkish Patrol" march.

AMUSEMENTS.

WHITE CITY.

The list of attractions at the White City lengthens as the season progresses, and the spectacular fire scene "Fighting the Flames," which was presented for the last time on Friday last, is succeeded by an equally sensational act—that of the Fearless Parkes, wire-walkers, who made their first appearance at the White City on Saturday. These daring aerialists give a remarkable performance on a slender wire stretched 60 feet above the ground. Their act includes daring and clever trapeze work, an imitation of a drunken man, the human wheelbarrow, dancing, balancing on a chair and many other hair-raising feats, concluding with a back somersault and a slide through fire from the high wire to the ground below. Their act is as sensational as any yet presented at the White City. Another novel feature for this week is "Finding the lucky spot," in which every visitor to the park next Thursday is invited to participate. A peculiar-shaped card will be given to every person entering the grounds on Thursday. This card will exactly fit the lucky spot—which is in full view of every one visiting the park. The first person to find the lucky spot will be presented with £50. If the money is not claimed on Thursday, £5 will be added each day until the spot is found.

THE ROLAND REES CONCERT.

The pupils of the Roland Rees Academy will give a musical and dramatic entertainment at St. James's Hall next Thursday evening, when leading artists will assist. The plan is at Paling's.

SOCIETY OF MAGICIANS.

The Australian Society of Magicians will give an evening's entertainment at the Repertory Theatre next Saturday, when the assisting artists in a varied programme will include Miss Alma Berg, Messrs. Edward Wright, Harry Thomas, Percy Herford, Warrington Reynolds, and the Stent Instrumental Society. The plan is at Paling's.

"BABES IN THE WOOD" COMPANY.

Mr. George's Willoughby's "Babes in the Wood" pantomime company is now concluding a successful northern tour, which started at Newcastle, and has included Brisbane, Rockhampton, and other Queensland centres. This combination, which will reach this city on Thursday, will be joined here by Miss Ruby Davies, the new principal boy, and will sail next day by the Manuka for New Zealand.

IRISH MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Messrs. J. and N. Tait have arranged an Irish Musical Festival, to take place in the Town Hall on Saturday, March 27, and Monday, March 29. Melbourne's Irish Pipe Band of thirteen performers and Miss Vera Carew (soprano), Mr. Ambrose M'Mahon (baritone), and Mr. Pat. Coleman (basso) will assist, and there will be Irish and Scottish dances, jigs, reels, and song sets by Miss Annie Maher, Miss Norah Joyce, Sergeant I. O'Sullivan, Mr. N. Fitzgerald, and Mr. J. Fogarty. The plans will open at Nicholson's on Monday, March 22.

THE ALLEN DOONE SEASON.

Mr. Allen Doone, since the termination of his season last year, has taken a long holiday motoring and pigeon shooting, dividing the big prizes in Melbourne with several of the crack shots. Now reinvigorated, the popular Irish actor-manager proposes to open his Easter season at the Palace Theatre with Theodore Burt Sayre's new play, "O'Shea the Rogue." In this romantic masterpiece he will play the name part, with Miss Edna Keeley as the heroine. Mr. Frank Kenny will be business manager.

MISS IDA GOUGH'S PUPILS.

The pupils of Miss Ida Gough will give a pianoforte recital at St. James's Hall next Saturday, when Misses Patty McMahon, Grace McColl, and Tessie Marshall will assist. Mrs. Gough will also appear in two sketches, assisted by Miss Renee Cato and Mr. Jack McAneny. The plan is at Paling's.

MR. WALTER BENTLEY'S ADDRESS.

"The Voice, and How To Use It" will be the subject of a public address to be delivered at St. James's Hall by Mr. Walter Bentley on Wednesday, March 24. The chair will be taken at 8 o'clock by Sir Thomas Anderson Stuart. The admission is free, and tickets may be obtained from Mr. Bentley at his studio, Record-chambers.

MR. C. MURRAY GIBBES' CONCERT.

Mr. C. Murray-Gibbes, author and composer of "A Red Rosebud," and other songs, who has recently returned from England, will give a vocal recital at the St. James's Hall on Friday, March 26. The young baritone will be assisted by Miss Vera Watt, Messrs. Frank Hutcheson, Sid Macdonald, and Harry Thomas. The plan opens at Paling's next Wednesday.

"THE WALTER BENTLEY PLAYERS."

The "Walter Bentley Players" will open their 1915 season at the Repertory Theatre on March 31 next, when they will stage "Cleopatra Reigns," a farce; "It Pays His Debts," a serious sketch; and "Search Me," and "A Japanese Love Story," both bright and entertaining sketches. The principal feature of the programme will be a reproduction of "The Minister's Daughter," in which Mr. Walter Bentley will play Jacob Fletcher—the minister. The plan is now at the Studio, Record-chambers, Castlereagh-street.

H. J. GEHDE'S CONCERT.

Mr. Gehde, having secured the Town Hall for Good Friday Night next, will direct a concert, at which he will introduce again to the public Sig. Podesta, a favourite 'cellist, who has not appeared here for 10 or 12 years. Mr. Gehde will also play his original "Storm Fantasia" on the organ. Other artists will include Miss Elsie Peerless, Miss Lillian Frost, Signor Torzillo, the Meistersingers Quartette, and Cathedral Chorister Boys.

A LECTURE ON THE WAR.

The Rev. James Wilson, who has recently returned from Europe, will deliver a lecture at the Town Hall on Thursday evening next on his experiences. The proceeds will be devoted to the Belgian Fund.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

A busy time may be anticipated at the office of the Australian Jockey Club to-day, for at 4 p.m. the general entry for the Autumn Meeting closes with the secretary, Mr. C. W. Cropper. The added money for the 19 events, for which nominations are invited, exceeds by a long way anything that has hitherto been provided by a racing institution in Australasia, and includes events for all classes of horses over distances ranging from six furlongs to a mile and five furlongs, while the prizes range from 500 to 2000 sovs. Owners and trainers who have not yet lodged their entries should do so as early as possible, and thus avoid the risk of losing the chance of competing for such valuable stakes.

The weights for the second day's racing of the Rosehill Autumn Meeting are promised this forenoon.

Mr. J. Gringale, secretary, invites entries up to 4 p.m. to-day for the half-a-dozen items on the card for the March meeting of the Newcastle Jockey Club on the 20th inst. The prize money totals 650 sovs., of which the Tramway Handicap and March Handicap are endowed with 125 sovs each, and the other races with 100 sovs each.

Sparklight, who opened her winning account in the Orrong Two-year-old Handicap at Caulfield on Saturday, is a Tocal-bred filly, by imported Knightlight from Amitie, by Beauchamp (imp.) from Handshake, by Pilgrim, and was purchased at the Randwick sales for 90 gns.

Backers were also happy in their selection of the favourite for the Granville Stakes. When business opened, the Bobadil gelding Bobadine had the market call, but later on, as the money came in for Hopfield, the former eased, and the latter went out a pronounced favourite, while beyond the pair mentioned the best supported were Gay Gun and Infantine. Bardini set the pace until fairly in line for the judge's box, but was tiring fast when Hopfield challenged him at the distance, and the latter scored with consummate ease from Gay Gun and Bobadine, the latter of whom had his chance discounted by losing some ground when half the trip had been covered. Hopfield was bred by Mr. J. Hart, of Maitland, and is by Maltster from Circe, a New Zealand-bred mare, by Castor (imp.) from Cissy, by Musket. He is owned and trained by H. J. Robinson, and was piloted by the apprentice, M. Harris.

The Clyde Stakes at Rosehill on Saturday was responsible for a field of a score, among whom were a number of horses holding Doncaster engagements. The Eariston filly Eugeny, who performed so brilliantly as a two-year-old, and who has already been supported for the Doncaster Handicap, was promptly installed favourite, but, later, on, ground was in for Brattle, who firmed in the quotations until she ousted Eugeny from the responsible position; while the best backed of the others were Spurn and Ruinall. The latter, however, made one act of it, but he had a very close call from Spurn. The favourite flattered his supporters at the home turn, where she ran up next to the leader, but in the run home was easily cut out of second money by Spurn, who came very fast from the distance, and finished almost at Ruinall's throatstrap. Eugeny looked dangerous at the distance, but failed to make good, and finished sixth, but, in the meantime, there is room for improvement. This is how the weights carried compare with those in the mile race at Randwick:—

Horse.	Clyde Stakes, 6f.		Doncaster Hcp., 1m.
Willow Green	9.5	..	8.6
Spurn (3yrs)	9.3	..	8.7
Ruinall (3yrs)	9.2	..	8.11
Portrush	9.0	..	8.0
Eugeny	8.5	..	8.4
Tauter	8.5	..	7.12
Tabinn, carried	7.12	..	7.11
Carlossa, carried	7.12	..	6.8
Nimbi	7.11	..	7.4
Pell, carried	7.9	..	6.10
Merrimac	7.5	..	6.10
Rosella	7.0	..	6.10

A glance through those figures shows that Spurn has all the best of the weights, for Ayr Laddie's daughter will have 10lb less to carry in the Doncaster than she had up on Saturday.

The largest field of the afternoon at Rosehill on Saturday was that of 22 for the Maiden Nursery Handicap, and the popular selection was Nellie Grafton, a daughter of imported Grafton and the Projectile mare Langrel. The Nobleman-bred Rouen, a daughter of imported Kenilworth and Keepsake, by Nobleman (imp.), was next fancied, while the best backed of the others were Coalacre, Petrograd, Morse Code, and Cantry. Though the favourite joined the leading division at the distance, she failed to get a place, while Coalacre, who made nearly all his own running, won in a most exciting finish with Corrikie and Rouen, the trio flashing past the post separated by heads. The winner, who is by Linacre (imp.) from Coal Queen, by Lochiel from Pride, by Nevillite (imp.), was bred at the Widden stud, and cost 65 guineas as a yearling. Corrikie, who ran second, is by Petrillo (imp.) from Sweet Alice, by Gang Forward (imp.), was bred by Mr. J. H. Bettington at the Terragong stud, and cost 380 guineas as a yearling, while Rouen, who ran third, cost 320 guineas as a yearling.

Mr. H. Cohcroft, secretary, invites entries up to 3 p.m. to-day for the seven events on the card for the pony and galloway meeting at Victoria Park on Saturday next, the 20th inst. The prize money totals 700 sovs., distributed equally.

Fences considerations ensured a big field for the Rosehill Cup, the only defections noticed on the course being Cisco, Willow Green, Taunter, Mandown, Hot Cake, and Necktie, leaving 21 to compete for the prize, the best backed of whom was Tartanus, who started a pronounced favourite, with Tofua next in demand; while, at more expensive prices, Simon Frisco, Orama, My Gavonni, Lady Boniform, King Mostyn, and Lochano were marketable, but very few others were asked for. Lady Boniform was responsible for the pace to the bend, where Secret Service and It's Funny joined issue, the nearest of the others being Fertile, Lochano, King Mostyn, and Tofua. Lady Boniform was headed by Secret Service at the distance, where Tofua (on the outside), King Mostyn, and Lochano put in their claims. Secret Service was done ere the half-distance was reached, and from that point a most exciting encounter was fought out among Tofua, King Mostyn, and Lochano, who, right clear from their followers, flashed past the post in the order named, separated by heads. Tartanus was never in the hunt, and the same may be said of Simon Frisco, Orama, and My Gavonni. Lady Boniform ran a good race, as did Secret Service, while Trinobantes finished next to the placed horses. The winner was bred at the Mytreat stud by Messrs. Main Bros., and is by Featherstitch (son of Ayrshire) from Delta, by Trenton from Dainty, by Grand Flaneur, and carried the colours of his trainer, W. King. Hitherto he has been restricted to sprint racing, and took part in the V.R.C. Newmarket Handicap last month, but evidently he is better over a distance. Tofua is engaged in the A.J.C. Doncaster Handicap with 7st 10lb, or 4lb less than he carried on Saturday. King Mostyn, who ran second, is in the mile race at Randwick with 7st 7lb, or 2lb more than he carried on Saturday, while Lochano's weight for the Doncaster is 7st 11lb, or 5lb less than he had in the race.

Those interested should note that at 4 p.m. to-day first forfeit falls due for the A.J.C. Sires' Produce Stakes, Doncaster Handicap, Sydney Cup, and Champagne Stakes, and all horses remaining in after that hour will be deemed first acceptors, incurring the usual liabilities.

The Flaneur gelding, Flamboyant, was the popular pick, in a field that was one short of a score, for the Carlingford Mile, with which the afternoon's sport was brought to a close on Saturday, while Grail and Curioso were the best supported of the others, though, at larger prices, there was money for Balustrade, Lord Emily, Kirribilli, and Sanguine. Flamboyant assumed command in the first furlong, and he carried his field along to the bend, where Drama King ran to the front, and, with Lord Emily on terms, turned for home, with Kirribilli in pursuit. Kirribilli ran down Drama King inside the distance, and beat him comfortably at the end, with Grail in the other situation, while the favourite had nothing to say in the settlement of the question. The winner was bred by Mr. H. V. Foy, and is by Tartan (son of Lochiel) from Fort Jackson (dam), by Orzil, and is trained by his owner, F. Ryan, at Roseville. Kirribilli is engaged in the Doncaster Handicap, with the minimum weight.

Traquette, who is in the Doncaster Handicap with an even 9st, was successful at Caulfield on Saturday, in the South Yarra Handicap, under 9st 9lb.

Several of the Victorian racing team to take part in the A.J.C. Autumn Meeting have arrived, and among them are the jumpers, Giesiah and Beritas, the imported horse Land of Song, the two-year-old Red Signal, and Golden Buck.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs that the stipendiary stewards have concluded their inquiry into the running of Dartowa in the Hurdle Race at Moonee Valley, and have decided, owing to the previous good record of his rider, B. Connelly, and the favourable evidence given on his behalf, to give him the benefit of any doubt there might be in their minds.

Simon Frisco was the first out on Saturday morning at Randwick on the magpie track, where he started half a mile from the Marco and Pernel followed on with steady work, as did King Mostyn, Chillonette, and Wyadra, while Merrimac accounted for six furlongs in 1m 23s. A strong round was negotiated by Morea, and Silver King executed a useful task. Royal Laddie and Sweet Malt slipped over half a mile in 52s, while Moss Bob and Gilbelumbi went at half pace. At the close of the work on the grass Land of Song and Red Signal, who arrived the previous day, were sent at an easy pace around the middle track. Both horses looked well, after experiencing an excellent trip across in the boat. They are in charge of E. Penna. On the tan Sir Alwynton traversed a circle in 2m 20s. The jumpers, Torone and Hallmark, took 2m 21½s for their round. Woorak ran six furlongs in strong style, as did Vole and Beck's Lager. Moonbria accounted for a round—the last six furlongs in 1m 22¾s. The two-year-olds Drummuir and Gringo managed five furlongs in 1m 8s, while Cisco threw seven furlongs behind in 1m 33¾s. Imshi bounded over six furlongs in 1m 18½s, while Alured, Silver Steel, Beau Soult, Forest Prince, Sir Vive, Bercola, Golden Hop, Giru, Salarino, Challenge Crosse, and Mendelsshon were indulged in half-pace.

The Perth Cup winner, Dollar Dictator, arrived in Sydney on Friday, and went into H. Chippendale's charge to finish his Sydney Cup preparation.

ROSEHILL AUTUMN MEETING.

TOFUA WINS ROSEHILL CUP.

RUINALL THE CLYDE STAKES.

In hot, dusty, disagreeable weather the autumn meeting of the Rosehill Racing Club opened on Saturday, but, despite the adverse conditions and the clash of pony and galloway races, there was a large attendance in both reserves. With the exception of that for the Hurdle Race, the fields were large, and the sport throughout was of a highly interesting character. The card was run through without accident, save for a harmless fall in the Hurdle Race, and the stipendiary stewards had little to engage their attention. The entry of imported Kerman, who was described in the book as a five years old instead of a year older, was allowed to be amended on payment of £1. Wagering was brisk, and though a couple of favourites and a second favourite were successful, the wins of Coalacre and Kirribilli in their respective races assisted in easing off the liabilities of the ringmen. The track was good going, the general arrangements up to the customary standard, and were ably supervised by the secretary, Mr. Geo. W. S. Rowe. The details of the racing are subjoined:—

HURDLE RACE, handicap of 100 sovs; second horse 10 sovs, and third horse 5 sovs from the prize. 2m.

Mr. W. Stafford's br g Jack Rice, by Rice (imp.)—Explain, 5 yrs, 10st 9lb (J. Callitt) ... 1
Mr. J. McKinnon's ch g Rentile, 6 yrs, 9st (W. Burn) ... 2
Mrs. E. Duggan's b g Inverlorn, aged, 10st 6lb (M. Fraser) ... 3

Other starters: Flute Player, 10st 6lb (A. Sowen); N.C., 9st 2lb (Cerar); Tilba, 9st (J. Levi); Sylvamor, 9st (J. Knox).

Betting: 5 to 4 on Jack Rice; 5 to 2 v Flute Player, 10 to 1 v Inverlorn, 16 to 1 v Sylvamor, 20 to 1 each v others.

When they had settled into their strides Flute Player and Jack Rice were in front of Sylvamor, but after passing the five-furlongs post Jack Rice drew clear, and came round the bend four lengths from Flute Player. N.C. came to grief over the first hurdle in the straight, and the favourite led past the stand a couple of lengths from Flute Player, after whom at lengthy intervals came Rentile, Inverlorn, Sylvamor, and Tilba. Flute Player drew up level with Jack Rice as they passed the mile post, but a little further on the favourite drew out and rattled along the back stretch a couple of lengths from Flute Player, and which he increased to eight at the five-furlongs post, where Rentile was six lengths away third, followed by Inverlorn. Rentile ran up next to the leader at the half-mile post, and the favourite came round the bend four lengths from Rentile, who was followed by Inverlorn. Jack Rice turned for home with Rentile and Inverlorn in pursuit, and coming on the favourite scored easily by three lengths from Rentile, who was 25 in advance of Inverlorn. Flute Player was four lengths further back, while Sylvamor and Tilba came in at very lengthy intervals. Time, 3m 59s.

When fairly going Bardini took charge from Barracondа and Bobadine, and they were followed round the bend by Lone Gull and Hopfield. Bardini turned for home with Barracondа, Hopfield, Gay Gun, Bobadine, and Prince Alfonso in pursuit. At the distance Hopfield put in his claim, and, taking command at the half-distance, came on alone, and won by four lengths from Gay Gun, who had Bobadine at his girths. Little Brewery, Barracondа, Bardini, and Algona were clustered behind the placed horses. Lone Gull was at the head of the others, with Porter whipping in. Time, 1m 16½s.

Brattle, Ruinall, and Bob Bunnow moved off in front, and Ruinall led past the five furlongs post with Brattle at his girths, followed by Heatherg and Bob Bunnow. There was no change as they ran past the half-mile post, and Ruinall came round the bend with Heatherg, Bob Bunnow, Brattle, and Moringie in his wake. Brattle moved up next Ruinall as they swung into line for home, and then Spurn and Eugeny appeared upon the scene. Spurn challenged Ruinall at the distance, but the latter lasted it out, and won by a neck from Spurn, who was two and a half lengths in advance of Brattle. Merrimac was close up fourth, followed by Lady Dennan, Eugeny, and Danaus, with Willow Green at the head of the others, and Heatherg and Bucias bringing up the rear. Time, 1m 15s.

MAIDEN NURSERY HANDICAP of 125 sovs, with sweepstakes of 1 sov each for starters added; second horse 20 sovs, and third horse 10 sovs from the prize. 5f.

Betting: 4 to 1 v Nellie Grafton, 6 to 1 v Rouen, 8 to 1 each v Coalacre and Petrograd, 12 to 1 each v Morse Code and Chantry, 20 to 1 each v Corrikie and others.

Rouen was the first to show out, but when they had settled into their strides Coalacre and Morse Code were at the head of affairs, closely followed by Rouen, Royalla, Petrograd, and Thoona, and as they came round the bend and into the straight, Coalacre was still in command at the distance from Chantry, Rouen, and Nellie Grafton, while on the rails Corrikie was running fast, and a great finish resulted in a head win for Coalacre from Corrikie, with Rouen a similar distance off third. Minacre was fourth, and was succeeded by Long Reef, Morse Code, Kagal, Petrograd, Prince Manlin, Nellie Grafton, and Thoona in a cluster, with Trillunah and Alright in the rear. Time, 1m 4½s.

Betting: 2 to 1 v Tartanus, 8 to 1 v Tofua, 10 to 1 each v Simon Frisco and Orama, 12 to 1 each v My Gavonni and Lady Boniform, 14 to 1 each v King Mostyn, Lochano, and Auntier, 50 to 1 each v others offered.

From a good start Lady Boniform came on to the course proper, followed by Toast, King Mostyn, Lochano, and Trinobantes, and so they ran past the mile post. Lady Boniform opened up the back stretch, closely followed by King Mostyn, Toast, El Chico, and It's Funny. When they reached the six furlongs post Lady Boniform was a length from El Chico, after whom came Lochano, Secret Service, and Toast; and so they ran past the five furlongs post. At the half-mile post Lady Boniform still led, with It's Funny and Secret Service at her girths, and they were succeeded by Auntier, Trinobantes, and King Mostyn. That order was preserved round the bend, and with It's Funny on terms, Lady Boniform and Secret Service turned for home, with Lochano on the outside. Secret Service was in front at the distance, inside of which he was challenged by King Mostyn, with Tofua coming fast on the outside, and Lady Boniform on the rails. A great battle was fought out from the half-distance, resulting in a head win for Tofua from King Mostyn, with Lochano a similar trifle away third. Trinobantes was four lengths away, followed by Secret Service and Lady Boniform next; then came El Chico, Brunnhilda, It's Funny, and Auntier, with Simon Frisco and Leta bringing up the rear. Time, 2m 8s.

Betting: 5 to 2 v Flamboyant, 6 to 1 v Grail, 8 to 1 v Curioso, 10 to 1 each v Balustrade, Lord Emly, and Kirribilli, 12 to 1 v Sanguine, 14 to 1 v Count Andria, 20 to 1 each v Drama King and Owen Roe, 25 to 1 v others.

Firm jumped off in front of Scotch Artillery, Drama King, Lord Emly, and Balustrade, but at the end of the first furlong Flamboyant was leading from Firm, Scotch Artillery, Drama King, and Kirribilli, after whom came Balustrade and Sanguine. Without material change they raced along the back stretch to the half-mile post, where Flamboyant was still in charge from Drama King, Firm, Kirribilli, Curioso, Balustrade, and Lord Emly. Drama King ran past Flamboyant as they came round the bend, with Kirribilli, Lord Emly, Sanguine, Balustrade, and Grail in pursuit. Lord Emly joined issue with Drama King as they turned for home, attended by Kirribilli and Grail. Kirribilli ran to the front at the distance, and, coming on, won by a length and a half from Drama King, who was a similar distance in front of Grail. Lord Emly was close up fourth, with Count Andria, Balustrade, and Sanguine next, Curioso at the head of the others, and Lesops last. Time, 1m 42¼s.

VICTORIA AMATEUR TURF CLUB.

SECOND AUTUMN MEETING.

WALLACHIA WINS THE ST. KILDA CUP.

TRAQUETTE, THE SOUTH YARRA HANDICAP.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The weather was fine and cool for the second Autumn Meeting of the V.A.T.C. The attendance was first-class.

There were eight runners for the Narong Hurdle Race, and Wisconsin opened favourite, but, at the finish, Chess was in most demand. Chess took command before reaching the home turn, and won with a length and a half to spare from Milkabah, who failed to stay. Sir Prim was well backed, but his form was still disappointing, though he managed to secure third place.

One was always favourite for the Orrong two-year-old, while there was a lot of money for the Fleming ton winner, Euretta. The outsider Sparklight made the early running, with One handy. The favourite was first into the straight, but made the turn rather badly, and Sparklight headed him again, after passing the distance, eventually winning by half a head. Karl, whose rider was not of much use to him in the final struggle, was only half a head away third. It was a fine finish.

Only seven of the 25 horses figuring on the card went to the post for the St. Kilda Cup. Meritus was always a strong favourite, going out at 7 to 4, with Winnipeg and Wallachia next in demand. Desire made the pace as long as his condition lasted, then Wallachia took command, and she eventually won by three-quarters of a length from the favourite, while Wishing Cap, who met with some interference in the straight, was third. Meritus, who went out carrying a boot on each of his forelegs, ran unkindly throughout, and Winnipeg ran disappointingly. Wallachia is engaged in the Doncaster Handicap with 7st, and Sydney Cup with 6st 12lb.

Algabohyah was the pick of backers for the Gordon Steeplechase, with Ungala and Bowood next fancied. The Tasmanian, Nazzaro, and then Bowood, made the pace, and Ungala looked to have a good chance at the back, where Yiralie fell, and interfered with him, causing him to lose several lengths. Bowood then cleared out, and, though he blundered at the sod wall, he beat Ungala by two lengths.

Plymouth, who was a hot favourite for the Ubique Corinthian, won hard held by four lengths from El Bro.

The admirers of Traquette for the Doncaster Handicap, must have been more than satisfied with her performance in the South Yarra Handicap. She was burdened with 9st 9lb, but in a field of 14 she was a hot favourite at 2 to 1, the best backed of the others being Tadanga and Quair Burn. The trio filled the places, but Traquette won in fine style. She joined Quair Burn in the lead at the end of a couple of furlongs, and at the distance she had Quair Burn well beaten; then Tadanga, who had been outpaced by the two leaders, began to close up the gap, and, finishing very resolutely, she got to within half a length of Traquette, who was naturally tiring a bit at the finish. It was one of the finest weight-carrying performances on the part of a three-year-old that has been seen for a very long time, and the crowd were not slow to recognise it, as they accorded Traquette a fine reception as she returned to the weighing yard. Traquette has 9st in the Doncaster Handicap, and she will be sent to Sydney shortly. When the field lined up at the post, Saracen was overlooked by the starter, and the field was sent away without him. Mr. Support Greene reported to the stewards that Saracen was not in his hands as a starter, consequently backers of Saracen will have their money refunded. The details of the racing are appended:—

NARONG HURDLE, 2m 64yds.

Mr. Darwin's Chess, by Chesterman, 10st 3lb (A. Hawkins) ... 1
Mr. Collins' Milkabah, 10st 4lb (F. McCabe) ... 2
Mr. L. Hawthorn's Sir Prim, 9st 9lb (R. Baird) ... 3

Other starters: Wisconsin, 11st 7lb (Bird); Hypo, 10st 5lb (Boyd); Admiral Grand, 9st 12lb (Kelly); La Fidelle, 9st (Price); Hillsville, 9st (Connolly).

Betting: 5 to 2 v Chess, 7 to 2 v Wisconsin, 5 to 1 v Sir Prim, 8 to 1 v Admiral Grand, 10 to 1 v Hypo.

La Fidelle and Milkabah made alternate running to the mile-post, when the latter then went out for a lead and at the back of the course was three lengths in front of La Fidelle, Sir Prim, and Chess. Going down the railway side, Chess ran to the front, and was not afterwards troubled, winning by a length and a half from Milkabah, who beat Sir Prim by four lengths. Then came Wisconsin and La Fidelle, with Hillsville last. Hypo fell. Time, 3m 52½s.

GERMAN VANDALISM.

RUINS AT SAINTE CHAPELLE.

AN OBJECTIVE OF THE ALLIES' FLEET.

MOSQUE OF SAN SOFIA, CONSTANTINOPLE.

The largest mosque in Constantinople, has an interesting history. It had its beginning as a Christian church, was captured by the Mohammedans, retaken by the Christians, and taken again by the Mohammedans, when all the Christians in Constantinople having taken refuge in it were massacred. The old entrance was walled up, and a new one made, and it was then foretold that no Christian race would take Constantinople, and enter the mosque as conquerors, except through the original doorway. This walled-up doorway faces the sea, and an accidental shell from the warships may yet reopen the door.

ATHLETICS.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIPS.

NEW AUSTRALASIAN RECORDS.

The weather was hot on Saturday, when the annual track and field championships of the State were brought to a conclusion at Pratten Park, Ashfield. The meeting was under the control of the N.S.W. Amateur Athletic Association, but a long programme, comprising ten championship events, five Decathlon items, and club handicaps for members of the Western Suburbs A.A.C. and Mozart Juvenile Harriers, and Enfield-Burwood Bicycle Club, failed to attract an attendance quite equal to that of the previous Saturday. Yet, despite the heat, the performances in the majority of championships were very creditable. The track was in splendid condition, and there were some brilliant struggles for the leading positions.

A. F. Thorpe, of South Sydney, again demonstrated his brilliancy by winning the 880yds championship in 1m 59s, and continuing on to the 1000yds mark in an endeavour to create new figures for the latter distance, registered 2m 15 4-5s. for the full journey. This is 4-5ths of a second better than A. W. Dormer's Australasian record, and 4s faster than J. F. Dalrymple's New South Wales record, and it is only 3.2-5s worse than the world's best, standing to the credit of M. W. Shepherd, made in New York on August 7, 1910. It would appear, by the easy manner in which Thorpe completed the distance, that he is capable of establishing a world's record. The course was measured after the race and found to be 1010yds. Later in the day Thorpe competed as a member of his club, in the one-mile relay championship, taking the last quarter-mile, and breaking the tape about four yards in advance of the East Sydney representative. Another Australasian record was made in this event. South Sydney's quartette completing the distance in 3m 33s, and beating the club's previous record of 3m 40s. The new figures are 14 4-5s. outside the world's best, made by the New York A. C. four years ago.

J. W. Frazer, A. W. Pickard, W. J. O'Reilly, and P. Longman also retained their titles, while the new champions for 1915 are G. W. Gorman, who cleared 10ft 4in. in the pole vault; W. J. Ryan 220yds, and J. H. Wicks running broad jump. The Decathlon competition to decide the all-round champion of the State, was won by T. Maher, of the East Sydney Club, with 3282 points, a total which might have been increased but for the fact that Maher was troubled with an injury to his heel, which prevented him displaying his best efforts. Results:—

Time, 1m 59s, one second inside the standard. Thorpe continued on to the 1000yds mark, where three official time-takers awaited him. Finishing strongly, he recorded 2m 15 4-5s for the full distance, and created a new Australasian record.

The first mile was completed in 5m 14¼s, with Smith leading Longman and Hayden, and at the 1½ mile Hayden with Longman raced away from the field, and Griffiths and Matthews retired. Two miles were covered in 10m 34s, and at the bell the champion moved away, winning by 20 yards. Time, 15m 53 1-5s.

Time, 23m 56 2-5s.

Madeley led in the first relay from Jackson, and gained about six yards, passing to Henderson, while Rule took up the running for East Sydney, the North Sydney team being early left in the rear. Henderson passed to Beaver, who started off slightly in advance of Harwood, but the latter was unable to overhaul the South Sydney man, who passed to Thorpe with a couple of yards lead. Warner was East Sydney's last runner, and although he made a game effort to reach the champion Thorpe held him safe throughout, and won by four yards. It was an exciting struggle from the gun, and Thorpe showed splendidly after his strenuous run in the 1000 yards half an hour earlier. Time, 3m 33s—a new Australasian record.

INTERCLUB COMPETITIONS.

A defeat by Eastern Suburbs in A grade by Strathfield practically extinguished any chance of the former qualifying for the semi-finals. Strathfield's win was by one game only, rubbers and sets being equal. In the final rubber L. Todd and Dr. Plomley, having lost the first set to Barton and A. L. North, had to win the next two sets with a loss of only one game, to save the match. They just failed, as they won the second set to one game, and led 4-0 in the final. University graduates defeated Western Suburbs in a match so closely fought that one set was unfinished at 7 o'clock. Hunter's Hill maintained its unbeaten record by defeating University, and its moral could only save one rubber from Sydney I., for whom A. B. Jones and Wright were irresistible. Bonnington and Goodman were primarily responsible for Sydney II. beating Killara. Results:—

BRITISH AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY.

The Archbishop of Sydney, Dr. Wright, presided at the annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society, held on Friday, in St. James's Hall. The Rev. P. C. Nall, Mr. John Kent, and Mrs. Hipwell delivered addresses.

The annual report showed that the committee had disposed of 32,710 copies of the Scriptures during the past year. Although this total exceeded that of the previous year, the receipts were less, owing to the large distribution of free copies of New Testaments to the troops. Upwards of 5000 penny copies of the New Testament had been distributed among the members of the first Expeditionary Forces. The call was so unexpected that it was impossible to supply a better quality of book. Later through the generosity of a member of the committee, the whole stock of pocket Testaments, about 168 in number, was made available and distributed to the E Company. Mrs. MacVean, of Wagga, also came to the aid of the committee by offering to defray the cost of 1000 New Testaments of the better class. This generous offer was gladly accepted, and a cablegram was sent to London for 2500 Testaments to be sent to Egypt to meet the troops on arrival.

Don't remain

Weak, Anaemic, "Nervy," "Run-down"

Get well the 'Wincarnis' way—the quick, sure and safe way to new and vigorous health. It is the Quick way—because the benefit begins from the first wineglassful, and increases with every additional wineglassful. The Sure way—because it has given new health and new life to countless thousands of sufferers. And because it is recommended by over 10,000 Doctors. The Safe way—because it contains no drugs. The first effect of 'Wincarnis' is an immediate stimulation and invigoration of the whole system. This is followed by an actual up-building of bodily vigour—an up-building that you can feel—and which gives you more strength and vitality than you had before. And each succeeding wineglassful of 'Wincarnis' creates still more strength and still more vitality, until soon your whole body thrills with new health and new life. Then you can stop taking 'Wincarnis.'

But you can still enjoy to the full the glorious new health it has given you. That is where proves itself of enormous advantage over drugs and drugged wines. Drugs stimulate, it is true, but it is false stimulation. And drugs make you feel worse afterwards, because they depress the heart. Read what Mr. Edmunds says:—

"Dear Sirs,—I am delighted with the new health your world-famed 'Wincarnis' has given me. I have had such a busy season that I got 'run-down.' I was intensely weak, and quickly got exhausted. I was induced to take a wine tonic, which unfortunately made me feel worse than ever. I discovered afterwards that it contained drugs. So I quickly gave it up and tried 'Wincarnis' instead. And it is wonderful how speedily 'Wincarnis' has made me feel a different being. It seemed to put new life into me. I should never have believed that anything could do me so much good, or do it as quickly as 'Wincarnis' has done. I only wish I had tried it before.—Yours faithfully, A. S. EDMUNDS, 8-12, Selwyn Road, Cliftonville."

So you see that the health that 'Wincarnis' gives is real and lasting health. That is the health you want if you suffer from Anæmia, Weakness, Nerves, Sleeplessness, Exhaustion, Indigestion, or if you are "Run-down." And it is real and lasting health that 'Wincarnis' offers you. Will you try just one bottle?

Begin to get well TO-DAY.

'Wincarnis' is made in England by COLEMAN & CO., Ltd., Wincarnis Works, Norwich. You can buy 'Wincarnis' from any Wine Merchant, Licensed Chemist, or Grocer, but if you experience any difficulty in obtaining it write direct to the Sole distributing Agents, Fassett & Johnson, 5/7 Barrack Street, Sydney.

RABBITS.

The high price of meat naturally has caused many people to consider whether we might not make more use of the ubiquitous rabbit. Hitherto it has been regarded, and rightly, as a pest, first and last. Yet circumstances now exist, especially in the old world, which compel consideration of the vast store of food that the rabbit represents in this country. In this connection it is interesting to note that in the January number of the Journal of the Board of Agriculture (London) there appears a lengthy article on rabbits as an emergency food supply. It is queer for Australians to read: "As an adjunct to an existing business or farm, rabbit-keeping on a small scale can certainly be made worth the trouble, but as an independent enterprise it cannot be regarded as very hopeful." Advice is given how to rear and feed rabbits successfully. That has never worried our land-owners—the rabbit has managed very well without help, and despite violent obstruction.

Still we cannot escape the fact that rabbits are good human food—and we have them, unfortunately, in millions. It is interesting to recall that three or four years ago a Tumut landholder applied to the Gundagai Pastures Board for permission to breed rabbits for trapping purposes, so that he could decide whether sheep or rabbits paid best. The board declined to take any responsibility for such a breach of the law, but sent the letter on for the edification of the Minister for Lands. The Minister's views on the proposal do not appear to have been made public. But recently, during the debate on the bill which gave the State, on behalf of the Imperial Government, an option over all the meat in New South Wales a few weeks ago, Mr. Waddell impressed upon the Premier the advisability of utilising the vast stores of rabbits obtainable. The Premier said the question would be looked into by the Minister for Agriculture, but so far nothing further has been announced as to the Government's intentions. Again, a few weeks ago, also, two men were convicted at Sydney for conspiring to defraud, their offence consisting of obtaining sums of money from men for setting them up with the necessary outfit for rabbit-trapping, and sending them to a certain district, where, it was falsely represented, they could engage in trapping with assurances of success. These three incidents, while they have no direct relation with each other in themselves, together are illuminative in the consideration at the present time of the rabbit as an important auxiliary food supply for the necessitous Belgians, and, to a lesser degree, for the British and Australian peoples. Is it not possible that the rabbit, pest as it now is, cannot help us greatly in a settlement of a great difficulty? The suggestion of the Tumut landholders indicates that, from the primary producers' point of view, there is a probability that the loss now sustained as the result of the presence of the rabbit may be turned into a source of revenue; Mr. Waddell's suggestion calls attention to the present pressing need; while the third instance shows that there are men prepared even to pay for the privilege of making a living by converting a pest into a marketable commodity.

The Government might wisely endeavour to place the rabbiting industry on a satisfactory basis. At present there is practically no co-ordination between the landholder, the trapper, the freezing and canning works, and the exporters. The trade badly needs to be systematised. So far as the landholder is concerned, he should receive some revenue from the rabbit if it is to be utilised. His objection to trapping is that the trapper takes only the grown rabbits, and it should be possible to overcome this difficulty. Apart, however, from private landholders, there are sufficient rabbit-infested stock routes and other Crown lands to afford employment to hundreds. The labour question does not present any great trouble. The industrial depression that has followed the war has thrown out of employment thousands who would be glad of an opportunity to make a living under healthy open-air conditions—a complete change from their former employment—until normal conditions return. It would not cost as much to set up the more needy ones with a rabbiting outfit, as it does to remove Broken Hill miners, by long train journeys, to work in other parts of the State. They could be paid by results, which would be an incentive to vigorous work, and centralised control of the distribution of the product would result in economies that should enable highly satisfactory rates to be paid to the trappers. The Government has control of transport arrangements, and could also deal more satisfactorily with the War Office, with a view to the extended use of canned rabbits for the troops, and for the supply of food for the starving refugees. The matter is worth immediate Cabinet attention, particularly in view of the fact that the winter season, in which nearly all trades are slackest, but during which the rabbit trade is at its best, is fast approaching.

A GOOD COW.

The "Tweed Daily" publishes particulars of the yield for 12 months of Mr. T. M. Boyd's Holstein-Durham cow, Topsy. She is about ten years old, and is the winner of many prizes, both in the show ring and for butter production. During the period dating from November 9, 1913, to November 9, 1914, she gave 13,845lb of milk, producing 694.2lb of butter, with an average test of 4.3 per cent. The value of this butter at 10d per lb is £28 18s 6d, and the value of the skim milk at 1d per gallon is £5 4s; to this must be added £10 to represent the value of her calf—a bull. This makes a grand total of £44 2s 6d, and by deducting £7 2s 6d for keep and attendance, she shows a net profit of £37 for the 12 months, without counting in the prize money she won. Topsy's ancestors on both sides can be traced from heavy milking cattle.

ENGLISH STUD ROMNEYS.

Mr. J. B. Sautelle, of Hilstead, Bibbenluke (Monaro), has just imported from England six stud Romney Marsh sheep, through Winchcombe, Carson, Ltd. One ram was bred by A. J. Hickman, Court Lodge, and the five ewes by R. S. Strouts, Singleton—both County Kent. This is a valuable addition to the Hilstead stud. Prior to the above purchase the stud comprised 50 registered stud ewes, and one stud ram, bred by G. F. Doyle, Cardington Hall, Molong, one stud ram (bred by F. Short, Paorangi, N.Z., by Record Breaker 3rd., from a Short stud ewe), and 26 stud ewes, bred by W. H. and V. H. Yelland, Treverder, Victoria.

COUNTRY KILLING.

"Pro Bono Publico" writes—I have, together with several other pastoralists read your article relating to country killing with much interest, and in reply I beg to point out that your suggestion that country killing must remain in the limbo of impracticable propositions, owing to the fact that droughty conditions would curtail operations and therefore entail loss of interest and wages or staff, seems at first sight, to the man in the street, to be a conclusive and final blow and the funeral of country killing as a live proposition.

I beg to point out that a business man with a knowledge of the conditions coupled up with the question would propose that a primage charge per head on all stock treated should be charged, to form a nucleus of an insurance fund to cover any loss under the heads of shortage and labour to meet this emergency, and this primage charge would be so small that it would not be felt; in fact, the immense saving to the producer would enable him to pay twice the actual primage per head that would be required to cover this insurance fund, and then be able to sell cheaper, with a better return, which he deserves, and the consumer would get better and cheaper meat.

Our droughty conditions are generally only partial, and, even if it is, in Riverina where I am, and where we suffer from dry spells, a serious shortage would not be felt, excepting during times such as we are now having; and all will admit that these are abnormal and exceptional conditions. But, for all this, our present meat trade, that is rapidly expanding, and may reach, with proper treatment, an immensely greater stage of output, would be enabled to compete in quality also, but this is doomed, by your own showing, under present auspices. We must not only be able to give quantity but also quality if we are to hold our own in the world's supplies and markets, and for this reason we should closely follow in the steps of other countries that are employing up-to-date methods in their meat trade. Vested or any other interests have nothing to do with this matter. But with reference to the meat trade, I am confident that they would welcome country killing, chilling, and refrigeration. It would be in their interest, and also that of the general public.

YANCO'S FIRST SHOW.

The first show at the Yanco irrigation area was held on Wednesday last, and although there were many who thought that the local agricultural associations was rather too optimistic in holding a show so soon after the commencement of settlement on the areas, the result obtained proved that the action of the association in opening this year was the correct one. It was only a one-day show, and the attendance approached 2000 people. There were a large number of ring events.

The agricultural exhibits were of the highest possible quality, but the association hopes that next year it will have many more exhibitors in this particular section. A feature was the processed fruits and vegetables from the Government canning factory at Leeton. It is understood that these, as well as a number of the agricultural products are of such quality that they are to be used at the forthcoming Royal Agricultural Show at Sydney. One portion of the agricultural pavilion was taken up by exhibits of the products from the school children's plots, and these indicated that some of the sons of the irrigation lessees will make excellent farmers in time to come.

The officials of the association are to be congratulated on the efforts put forward by them in connection with this, their first, show. Mr. E. J. Polkinghorne, president of the association, together with Mr. W. J. Monfries, secretary, did good service, and were assisted by a strong committee. In the evening the association entertained the exhibitors, settlers generally, and the officers of the commission at a smoke concert at the Leeton Club, at which there was a very large attendance. Many congratulatory speeches were made, and the whole tone of the gathering was one of optimism.

THE FARM VET.

Messrs. Angus and Robertson, Ltd., forward a copy of "The Farm Vet.," by an M.R.C.V.S. It is an English publication, and appears to be very complete. The book is provided with a useful index enabling the reader to quickly refer to any particular disease. A useful lot of recipes are given, and also a long list of drugs and doses. In a subsequent edition the title page should carry the author's name, as well as his professional qualifications. They add materially to the competitive value of the book.

STOCK RATES.

QUESTION OF STARVING STOCK.

BATHURST.—The Pastures Protection Board has decided that in cases where landowners had sent in returns rates be levied on them, and that in cases where the stockowners made the returns the rates be levied on the carrying capacity of the land, as distinct from the number of sheep.

This action was taken to meet the difficulty created by a large number of starving stock being in the district on agistment at the time the usual stock returns were made.

STOCK ROUTES.

MINISTER'S SCHEME CONDEMNED.

BATHURST.—The Bathurst P.P. Board was, at its last meeting, uncompromisingly opposed to the proposals of the Minister for Agriculture for amendments relating to travelling stock routes. The chairman described the proposals as too drastic.

Mr. Webb moved that the board protest against the curtailment of the stock routes to a "few chains." He remarked that in the event of two or three mobs of sheep following each other the proposed narrow routes would be converted into dust-beds.

Mr. Brownlow suggested that the better thing for the Minister to do would be to reduce the width of the routes from half to a quarter of a mile, provide water along them, wire-net, and destroy rabbits. Evidently the Minister proposed to sell the land remaining after the curtailment, so as to pay for the cost of the scheme.

Mr. A. Stevenson remarked that the boards had been asking for the powers it was proposed to use for the past 20 years, and the department had been up against the boards all through. It was simply madness for a man to talk about reducing the present routes to a few chains, and wire-net them.

Mr. Kerr said that there were some routes which would probably be wire-netted, but which were seldom or never used, thus involving huge but useless expense.

The motion was unanimously carried.

DAIRYING.

BERRY.—For the month of February the Berry Co-operative Dairy Company, Ltd., manufactured 56,671lb of butter, and treated 40,368 gallons of milk for the Sydney milk trade. A progress report of butter (totalling 371 boxes) exported, showed a profit on advances made by the Coastal Farmers' Co-operative Society, of £216 10s 3d.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

TARALGA.

GOULBURN.—The annual show of the Taralga A.P. and H. Association was well attended on the first day. The exhibition of horses, cattle, and farm produce was excellent.

NEPEAN.

PENRITH.—Favourable conditions prevailed for the opening of the Nepean show on Friday. There was a splendid lot of entries, showing an improvement on last year. A special feature of the pavilion was the collection of farm products, etc., by Mr. Joshua Field, of Castlereagh. In this over 300 varieties are shown, the different kinds of oats, rye, and barley numbering 60 alone. The attendance for the first day was very good. The official opening was performed on Saturday by Mr. George Black, Minister for Agriculture.

TUMBARUMBA.

TUMBARUMBA.—The Tumbarumba and Upper Murray Agricultural Society held its annual show on Wednesday and Thursday, and it passed off very successfully, despite the adverse season. The draught and light horse sections were well filled. The sheep and cattle showed a falling off in numbers, but the quality was good. The grain and vegetable classes were a feature of the show, some very fine specimens of apples being exhibited, which do well in this district. Some excellent jumping was witnessed. Mr. M. J. Darcy, of Dandaraga, Berrigan, and Mr. J. Bradley, of Tumbarumba, judged the draught and light horses respectively.

LITHGOW.

LITHGOW.—The 28th annual show of the Lithgow A., H., and P. Association was opened on Friday. The show was shorn of some interest this year owing to the deletion of the sheep, cattle, and blood stock sections. The entries number about 1100, as compared with 1400 last year, the chief falling-off being in the flower section, the dry weather and hot winds having played havoc with pot and other plants. There were, however, some fine specimens of carnations and dahlias shown, while the pot plants were above the average. The section devoted to fruit not only contained some of the best specimens of apples, pears, etc., ever shown in Lithgow, but the number of exhibits is a record. There was also a record entry of pigeons and poultry, and judges are of opinion that the quality could not be beaten. There was a big falling-off in school exhibits. There will be no official luncheon or opening this year.

WELCOME TO RETURNED TROOPS.

A smoke night was tendered by the citizens of Mosman to the local troops returned from Rabaul, in the Mosman Town Hall on Friday evening. Alderman A. D. Walker presided, and addresses of welcome were given by the Mayor (Alderman W. H. Smith), Mr. P. B. Colquhoun, M.L.A., and Dr. Arthur, M.L.A. Sergeant Callier (who was in charge of the rearguard on the march to Toma, when they tramped 25 miles through blistering heat without water), and Able-Seaman Gunner responded on behalf of the troops. Staff-Sergeant Wray (of the Army Medical Corps) gave an interesting account of experiences in New Guinea, including details of the engagement when Dr. Pockley, A.B. Courtney, and others were killed and wounded. He especially praised the exploits of Able-Seaman Johns, who was conspicuous by his bravery in carrying wounded comrades to safety. An excellent musical programme was rendered by local artists and Private Davis.

PRESIDENT WILSON.

MESSAGE TO AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Governor-General to-night received the following cable message from the President of the United States (Dr. Woodrow Wilson):—"I thank your Excellency for your congratulations upon the success attending the opening of the Panama Pacific International Exposition, due in no small degree to your Commonwealth's hearty participation. I shall be happy to receive the distinguished citizens of Australia who are to represent your Government at the San Francisco Exposition, and shall take pleasure in personally assuring them of this Government's and my own deep appreciation of the interest which has been manifested in Australia in this celebration. (Signed) Woodrow Wilson."

NEWCASTLE.

PORT IMPROVEMENTS.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

At the last meeting of the Chamber of Commerce a letter was received from Mr. A. E. Cutler, Chief Engineer for Public Works, giving details of the progress and the intentions of the department in regard to the improvements in the port. The designs for the floating dock have been completed, and the material for it has been ordered. A new ladder dredge and a rock drill are now in course of construction. When the rock drill is completed, about nine months hence, the work of deepening the water at the entrance to the port will be resumed. A special rock drill is being constructed to carry out the work of removing the rock off Nos. 4 and 5 crane berths at the dyke.

The communication also refers to the extension of the southern breakwater, and mentions that the work has been temporarily stopped, as the material from the Waratah Quarry is required for the reclamation works in Newcastle Harbour. The two works could not be carried out at the same time. When the work in the southern breakwater is restarted it will be continuous day and night, and will take the whole output from the quarry.

THE COAL TRADE.

The coal exports last week reached 82,036 tons, and were slightly higher than the exports during the previous three weeks. Of the total quantity, 59,217 tons were for Commonwealth and New Zealand ports, and 22,819 tons for oversea countries.

SCHOOLBOY DROWNED.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

Leslie Farley, 11, a pupil of the Newcastle High School, was drowned on Stockton Beach yesterday afternoon. A number of children were bathing, when a strong back-wash set in, and several of them were soon in difficulties. After a hard struggle all but the boy were brought to the shore. He was carried out by the current until he disappeared. Young Farley had been living with Mr. Frederick Hudson, of Clyde-street, Stockton.

AFTERNOON SHIFT.

NEWCASTLE, Sunday.

The ballots taken at the lodge meetings held on Friday and Saturday show that there is an almost unanimous majority in favour of work being resumed at the afternoon shift collieries. To-morrow the miners at Pelaw-Main, Hebburn, East Greta, and Stanford-Merthyr will resume work after being out since May 27 last. At Whitburn there are still two or three difficulties to be settled. The question of payment for tops was outstanding before the strike commenced, and has not yet been overcome. The colliery will probably be working shortly.

HOTEL BURNED.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

Early this morning a fire practically gutted the Regatta Hotel on River-road, Toowong. Details are not yet available, but it is understood that from 30 to 40 rooms were destroyed, and that several persons were injured in jumping from the several floors.

Grace Leis, a housemaid, was awakened by smoke. The girl's cries aroused the household. In dropping to the ground, Miss Leis had a nasty fall. She complained of pains in her back, and was conveyed to the hospital, where her condition is stated to be serious.

LATE MR. J. M. M'NEELY.

Mr. James Michael M'Neely, late returning officer for the Commonwealth electoral division of Cook, died in this 62nd year at his residence, Bourne-street, Marrickville, on Saturday. Soon after the last Federal election he was presented with a gold watch by friends who had worked with him. Mr. M'Neely was employed in the postal service, and was for a number of years postmaster at Rozelle, and subsequently he filled a similar position at Camperdown.

NEWTOWN MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Two municipal elections were contested at Newtown on Saturday to fill vacancies caused by the recent deaths of Aldermen Elstub and Lawler.

The voting resulted as follows:—

Kingston Ward: William Dibble, 156 (elected); Francis Victor Flanagan, 106; Walter Gledhill, 32; informal, 2.

Camden Ward: Isadore Edwin Ryan, 89 (elected); Medway Thomas Barnabas Rowland Pawley, 82; William Edward Browne, 65; William Robert Thomas Eggleton, 32; informal, 5.

GOVERNMENT CONGRATULATED.

The secretary of the East Woollahra Labour League has written to the Premier: "It is with extreme pleasure that I have been instructed by my league to forward to you its hearty congratulations on the success of our Labour Government on its triumphal win of the Castlereagh seat. We feel sure the new member, Mr. Arkins, will prove an acquisition to your party. We also congratulate the Government on the splendid manner in which it has handled the wheat question, and wish it every success in this most trying crisis."

INTERSTATE TENNIS.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA v. VICTORIA

ADELAIDE, Sunday.

The weather was pleasant and the light good and even for the continuation of the interstate lawn tennis matches yesterday between South Australia and Victoria. Three men's doubles and two women's doubles were played in the forenoon. The South Australian men again asserted their superiority over the visitors, but the Victorian women's team bettered their success of the previous day by taking both doubles in straight sets. When play ceased on Friday the South Australian men's team had won 11 rubbers to 2 by the Victorians; while in the women's matches the ratio in rubbers was 5 to 1 in favour of the visitors. During the day a considerable crowd evinced great interest in the events. A. R. Taylor and R. V. Thomas made short work of T. K. and T. S. Fitchett, 6-2, 6-2. The latter were outplayed, and their tennis was not of such a high order as that of their opponents. The most noticeable cause of the Victorians' failure to put up a better show was their inattention to position. The play of the South Australians was much above them, particularly overhead. R. H. Reid and A. F. R. Scott disposed of H. Malcolm and H. Lemme in straight sets 6-1, 7-5. The first double was the most interesting of the series, and it lasted a considerable time. The South Australian men lost the first set 2-6, but extended the second to 13-11 in their favour. It was an exciting bout, and provided some brilliant rallies. The Victorians gained the verdict in the last set, 6-2. The play was so protracted that it encroached on the luncheon timetable. Rainey played considerably better than he did on the previous day. Scores:—

BOXING.

D'ARCY DEFEATS HOLLAND.

About 10,000 people assembled at the Stadium, Rushcutter Bay, on Saturday evening to witness the contest between two well-known middleweights—Les. D'Arcy, of New South Wales, and Fritz Holland, of America. Their expectations of an exciting contest were fulfilled, the two men keeping up the pace from first to last. Each round provided its own excitement.

There was only the fraction of a pound difference in the weights, the American being 11st 3½lb, and D'Arcy 11st 3lb. Both were in splendid condition, and showed wonderful muscular development, the local boxer being slightly shorter and more sturdy. Holland lost no time in taking the offensive in the first round, and D'Arcy retired to his corner showing evidence that the American's peculiar right swings had found a billet. Holland's defence was wariness, itself, but it was noticeable as the contest progressed that he had a fondness for getting into holds as often and as long as he could manage it. Still, when they stood off Holland was an awkward proposition, and he let go freely with both hands. D'Arcy, except for a cut over the eye in the first round, appeared impervious to the blows that fell upon him, and he adopted the principle of taking a hit in order to give one.

The rounds continued full of incidents, and the tide began to turn decidedly in favour of D'Arcy, whose activity enabled him to sustain the pace better than Holland, who fought coolly. D'Arcy kept the visitor moving round the ring, Holland's footwork being remarkably clever. Towards the end, Holland showed signs of damage, but in the last round he made a masterful effort to wipe off some of the points that had, round after round, been steadily accumulating against him. Amid great vociferations, he landed a right swing on the same spot where he made contact in the first round, and the shock steadied D'Arcy for a while. But towards the end of the round, D'Arcy was boxing with great vim, and the verdict of the referee, Mr. Harold Baker, in D'Arcy's favour, was thoroughly deserved. It was an excellent contest, great science being shown on both sides.

In the preliminaries, Harry Kilrain outpointed Harry Lee; and Mat Murphy proved too hard a hitter for Don Peel.

NEWTOWN OLYMPIA.

On Saturday night at the Newtown Olympia there were two six-round contests. Jack Hall beat Tom Clark in the second round, and Frank Lee beat Frank Moir. A skipping competition was won by Reg. Hermann, Billy Quirk being runner-up.

THE SPRING CAMPAIGN.

The warning uttered by "Eye-witness" against an under-estimate of the quality and efficiency of the German troops will hardly be neglected by anyone who has followed the long struggle since the battle of the Marne. In the west we have seen the failure of many of the more sanguine hopes that were founded on that great victory. The German armies, though they failed in their first ambition, were able to retreat on to prepared positions, and have since been able to elude all the attempts of the French and British to outflank them. In the east they have kept the Russian armies from German territory, and have shown a capacity to endure hardships and suffer losses which has not been exceeded by the hardiest troops of their enemies. Alike in the east and the west, German soldiers have answered two of the theories which were cherished by many of their critics at the beginning of the war. They have not been exhausted by the impetus of their first attack, either on Paris or on Warsaw. They have fought with as much bravery and as much discipline, if not with the same danger to their adversaries, when their troops belonged to reserve corps, as when they were selected from among the most famous regiments of the Prussian army. But when these fallacies have been admitted, and the stories composed by prisoners or deserters have been dismissed, there remain two good grounds for the belief that the German armies will not be so formidable in the spring campaign as they were in the autumn or in the winter. We do not under-rate the morale of the troops when we say that the pick of the German army has been destroyed. With the most admirable bravery and patriotism a nation which subjects more than half its population to conscription, and has itself chosen the moment for a declaration of war, cannot replace its first line by their equals in training and physique. If it is said that the Allies have suffered in the same way the answer is that it has been the guiding principle of General Joffre not to sacrifice men by the frontal attacks which, until recently, have been the common form among the Germans, and that the first six months of war have been used by all three Allies in bringing their armies into the state of numbers and efficiency with which their enemies opened the campaign. The second ground on which the Allies may rely is the passing of the initiative from the Germans to them on the western front. German speakers, from the Emperor to the President of the Prussian Diet, now mention the war as a war of defence. The territory defended, no doubt, includes Belgium; the method of defence may include occasional attacks on the Allies, fresh attempts to get to Calais, or even to threaten Paris. But the initiative has passed, or is passing, to the Allies. They are gradually beginning to dominate the railways, to complete the strengthening of their own lines, and to consolidate themselves, so that it will be for them to choose the moment and position of their attack.

It is impossible to form any idea of the result of a spring campaign on land, without considering the failure of the German blockade, and the possible intervention of neutral Powers. We know enough of the failure of the blockade to be certain that it has not interfered with the passage of new troops to Sir John French, and is not likely to do so. Germany may succeed in preventing a landing on the Belgian coast designed to do from England what Sir John French is a second time trying to do from his base in Flanders, and what the mythical Russian troops were to have done in September. She will not succeed in preventing Lord Kitchener's army of trained athletes from proceeding first to their base in France for their final training, and then to the front to take part in the advance which may have already begun. The first object of an Italian army would naturally be the occupation of the Trentino and Trieste, just as the first object of the Roumanian army would be the occupation of Transylvania and Bukovina. But each of these forces would realise that to occupy territory would be useless unless the enemy is utterly defeated. The Italians would be bound to join the French in an invasion of Germany through Alsace, the Roumanians to join Russia in a conquest of Hungary. If, as we gather from Signor Martino's speech, all the overtures of Germany have failed, the French victory in Alsace may be a prelude to an elaborate movement in the south, which will draw German troops from the Lorraine border, and lead to a combined invasion of Bavaria. If the Italian troops are not to be utilised, the French and British advance will come through Lorraine, and the victory of Reichacherkopf will be a preliminary movement for the consolidation of the right flank. If the advance on Germany were like the winter campaign, a series of trench captures and recaptures, the war would not end while a German or a British regiment remained in existence. But the spring will see a campaign of a different type. It will see an attempt to clear France of the German armies, by cutting their lines of communication, and then an attack on Germany at one of her vulnerable points, either through Silesia, through Lorraine, or through Alsace. It is an enterprise which will require every man whom the Allies can send, and all the patriotism of which they are capable. But it is an enterprise which their leaders regard with confidence, not because they despise their adversaries, but because of their knowledge of the quality of their own soldiers.

WOOL DECLARED CONTRABAND.

Again the Declaration of London under stress of war has been made to yield to the practical needs of the Allies. That declaration laid it down that wool, raw cotton, silk, jute, rubber, and some other articles were not in any circumstances to be made contraband. The reason was plain enough. It was felt by those who drafted the Declaration, and who vainly hoped that they had uttered the last word upon the subject of contraband, that in time of war there should be some fixity as to what was and what was not contraband, and, further, that as many articles as possible should be placed upon the free list so that the neutral commerce of the world should be interfered with as little as practicable. Those who represented Britain on the Naval Conference that drafted this great international law-making document had to keep their eyes fixed on two widely separated spots—always a difficult task. They had first of all to have regard to the interests of Britain as a possible belligerent, and then they had to look at matters from the point of view of her being a neutral. When the Declaration was finally agreed to by the plenipotentiaries of the naval Powers concerned there was certainly a sigh of relief in Australia among those conversant with what was going on when they heard that wool was not added to the list of contraband of war. Now things have so changed that it will in all probability be generally agreed in the Commonwealth that the removal of wool from the free list to the list of absolute contraband, which our cables inform us has been announced in the "London Gazette," will be received with equal satisfaction. The only thing that now awaits explanation is how it came about that the Allies did not take this step earlier. That would have obviated all the bother about prohibiting exports of wool to neutral countries, except under guarantees that may not be worth the paper they are written on.

To the uninitiated there may seem to be but little difference between the prohibition of the export of wool and the making it absolute contraband, but there is in reality a very great difference. Though the United States does not produce enough wool for her own requirements, she is still a considerable producer. The prohibition of export necessarily has no application outside the territories of the Allies. So under the law as it prevailed till last week there was nothing to prevent every bale of wool produced in the United States from being shipped in neutral bottoms to Germany. Such vessels would be liable to "visit and search" on the part of British or French men-of-war, but they could not be seized, and their cargoes would have to be left to proceed on their way unmolested either directly to an enemy port or to an enemy destination through a neutral port, such as Rotterdam. No doubt, much American wool has been bought by German agents in the United States and shipped that way. So, too, and this is even more important, crossbred wool could be freely shipped in neutral vessels from Argentina for enemy consumption. As long as the Germans could manage the matter of finance they were quite safe. That was the weakness of the mere prohibition of export decree.

But as far as Australian interests are concerned the position of the United States and of Argentina is not precisely on all fours. The North American republic has to import wool, and if she also exports any she must make up the deficiency by larger imports. The South American republic, on the other hand, is just as exclusively an exporter as Australia is. So, if domestic wool of the United States has been going to Germany, either directly or indirectly, at least that quantity had to be made up through increased shipments from Australia. This is very like Australia sending wool to Germany. For all practical purposes it was the same as if we had made direct shipments. It was trading with the enemy within the law. But this does not apply as far as Argentina is concerned. Her case, however, is no less important. Growers in that country must find a market, too. If they still attempt to consign their wool to Germany, even in neutral vessels, then in the event of the vessels being overhauled by ally cruisers they will be brought into port for adjudication before a Prize Court, and the whole of the wool, now being contraband of war, will be confiscated, no matter who the owner may be, and if half the cargo consists of wool the vessel itself will also be condemned and sold. So Argentine shippers will have all enemy markets completely shut off, and will have to look for outlets in the markets of the Allies or other neutral countries to which the doctrine of continuous voyages does not apply. This will be an excellent thing for the Allies, and is one of the most important features of the latest move.

The cable states that wool is to be "absolute" contraband, and this is to apply not only to the raw product, but to tops, noils, and yarns, that is to all wool in the earlier processes of manufacture. That they are to be "absolute" contraband, and not "conditional" contraband, is significant. It obviates all arguments as to the destination of the goods. No question can now arise as to whether the shipment is consigned for the use of the civil population or for the enemy Government, or its land or sea forces. The mere fact of its having an enemy destination is enough, and this is so even though that enemy destination is via a neutral port like Rotterdam or Genoa. It is clear that no effort is to be spared to prevent the enemy being clothed next winter, at all events. It will be interesting to note whether the same principle is to be one of these days extended to raw cotton. A desire doubtless not to unduly interfere with the trade of the United States has so far kept cotton off the list.

THE CAUCUS.

NO INSURGENT PARTY.

MR. BURGESS'S POSITION.

Mr. G. Burgess, M.L.A., made the following statement in reply to Mr. Stuart-Robertson's references to recent events in caucus.

"Mr. Stuart-Robertson, in an interview with the press, makes use of my name, and endeavours to show that the vote accorded to me in the Ministerial ballot was an anti-Holman, or anti-Ministerial vote. Now, I desire to tell Mr. Stuart-Robertson that the sooner he drops this sort of nonsense the better for himself and his party. He it was who started it, after the former ballot when Mr. Black was elected, and now he is going on to try and accentuate it. What his object is I cannot say, but if it is to start a new party, with himself as leader, then he had better call off. I deprecate Ministerial interference in picking a candidate as much as anyone, as the Ministers are created by the caucus themselves. But if anyone is responsible for this, it is Mr. Stuart-Robertson by his wild utterances, in claiming that all the votes given to him were anti-Holman, or anti-Ministerial. He knew that was not correct, and he has been told so. That there may be members who are dissatisfied with the administration of certain Ministers in their departments I am not going to deny, but to say that that feeling extends over 22 or 23 members against the Cabinet is to say something which is silly and absolutely incorrect.

"Now, with regard to Mr. Stuart-Robertson's references about what my attitude should be on our platform, I want him to understand right away that I do not need any teaching or advice on that point. I was disciplined in a much harder school than he; I have been 28 years a member of the largest union in the Commonwealth, started with it at its formation, and I do not need to be told what my duties towards those people who made me should be.

"So far as any vote I gave in caucus is concerned, that is my business, and is confined to the caucus room. But if Mr. Robertson is endeavouring to construe that vote into an anti-Ministerial vote, then he is barking up the wrong tree. Let me tell him and the press, too, at this juncture (because they did not seem to grasp it correctly the other day), that there are no insurgents in the party. That there may be some who are discontented is true, but that feeling exists in all active parties, and is sometimes good. But to say that a large number of our party are anti-Holman, or anti-Ministerial, and in open revolt, is untrue.

"I see a report in the press that I have been officially announced as a candidate for the whipship, and that I will not run as a malcontent or insurgent, and that some of the Ministers may support me. Well, I do not know what officially means, but I am a candidate. As for insurgents or malcontents, it is time this was cut out. I will be pleased to get the support of any individual Minister, but let us hope we have heard the last of any candidate running in our party with any ticket on him, Ministerial or anything else."

ARBITRATION.

TRANSFERENCE TO THE COMMONWEALTH.

MR. HOLMAN'S PLEA.

The Premier stated on Saturday that nothing has occurred since the last Premier's Conference in Melbourne to convince him that he was wrong in advocating the surrender to the Commonwealth by the States of all legislative powers relating to arbitration.

Mr. Holman states events that have happened since then strengthen his views. He thinks the forthcoming conference will be held early in May next, when he will do his best to induce the representatives of the other States to fall into line with New South Wales and make the surrender of these powers voluntarily. He held by what he urged before the Premiers last year, and the Premier quoted the general tenor of his remarks to the conference as follows as representing what he now advocates.

"If," said Mr. Holman, "you go through the list of powers handed over to the Federation under the Constitution, you will find in nearly every one of them the line of demarcation between Commonwealth and State is clearly drawn. For example, take quarantine, lighthouses, coinage, and weights and measures. They are all absolutely Federal. When the Constitution was adopted, and the Commonwealth was ready to take these matters over, the States ceased to have any power to deal with them. When the Commonwealth acted, the States ceased to exist. There are other questions where, although the power is not wholly Federal, it is absolutely Federal for one section, and absolutely State for another. Interstate commerce is controlled absolutely by the Federal Parliament, and domestic commerce is controlled absolutely by the State Parliaments. Banking, other than State banking, is controlled by the Federal Parliament absolutely, and State banking is controlled by the State Parliaments absolutely. In every one of the 39 powers conferred on the Federal Parliament, with one solitary exception, the definition is absolutely clear.

"We now come to the regulation of industrial disputes, and there alone every subject is under the jurisdiction of the States, and every subject of it can also be brought under the jurisdiction of the Federation. There is no marking out of the regions there, because the whole region is given up to both Parliaments by some strange misconception in the drafting of the Constitution. That single grant of power to the Federal Parliament is made utterly unlike any other. But in other cases there may be questions for lawyers to determine the dividing line. One lawyer may put forward one contention, and another another contention. But in every other instance there is a dividing line which distinguishes the region properly Federal from that which is properly State. Here the one region is State and Federal, and it is the only case in the Constitution where that extraordinary anomaly exists. This is at the bottom of the great difficulty. We have got into that state now. It has been proved after repeated arguments before the High Court by the ablest minds. Mr. Irvine and other men of equal standing at the Bar have argued again and again after the first decision of the High Court to try to obtain a reversal of that anomaly. There is now a general recognition that the thing is definitely determined and established, and that its effect is that all the industries under the regulation of the State Parliaments and State tribunals can also, by appropriate steps, be brought under the jurisdiction of the Federal Parliament through the instrumentality of the Federal Arbitration Court. There is no remedy for that position. That is why the problem is so unlike any other we have to deal with. There are not two regions here, but both Parliaments jostle each other in a single region. Now that the mistake has been made, the only thing to do is what we have done in connection with others of the 39 powers. Make the dividing lines where you like, but so arrange them that this subject shall be under the power of one authority. That is the only true solution. No one can deny that that should be striven for. How is it to be achieved? I can see no hope of doing it by any other means than by the State Parliaments withdrawing ultimately from that region altogether. I am speaking only of arbitration and conciliation for the settlement of disputes."

THE A.V.H.

A NOBLE WORK.

THE HOSPITAL AT WIMEREUX.

THE PERSONNEL.

LONDON, Feb. 2.

The only Australian unit that is at present seeing anything of active service on the Continent is the Australian Voluntary Hospital, better known to Australians as Lady Dudley's Hospital. The hospital was organised in a great hurry. When war broke out Lady Dudley went to the War Office, and offered to raise funds for Australian hospitals, and her offer was accepted. The great bulk of the money was contributed by the well-known Australian, Sir Robert Lucas Tooth, who subscribed £10,000, with a proviso that the hospital should not be called after any particular individual, and it was thereupon decided to call it the Australian Voluntary Hospital.

As soon as funds were assured, a meeting was called of all Australians in London, and a notable roll up was the response. As some of our best-known surgeons were in London at the time, and there were also several young doctors, holders of scholarships, and men who were qualifying for various specialist degrees, there was no trouble in getting together a very high-grade staff. Similarly, there were a large number of Australian-trained nurses who offered their services, and various other Australians came forward to act as hospital orderlies, drive motor cars, etc.

The War Office only accepted the hospital on the understanding that a man holding a Royal Army medical commission should be put at the head of it, and this position was given to Colonel W. St. Clair Eames, who had already earned distinction in South Africa and is well known throughout New South Wales. He chose as his second in command Colonel Horne, a Melbourne surgeon, while Major Dick, well known in Newcastle, was appointed to take charge of the sanitary arrangements of the hospital.

THE STAFF.

While Colonel Eames was getting his staff together, he had the good fortune to meet Dr. Herschel Harris, well known as an ex-ray specialist in Sydney. Hearing that Colonel Eames was going to volunteer, Dr. Harris said that he would go with him, and the hospital thus secured the services of a man whose work has been of infinite value to it, and did a great deal towards getting it the recognition which it has now obtained from the heads of the Royal Army Medical Corps. Nurse Greaves, of Newcastle, was appointed matron, and the staff was made up by Drs. Wallace Patterson, Gardner, and Reynell, the latter being a Rhodes scholar from Adelaide. Having got a staff together, the next thing was to buy the outfit, and some £7000 was spent in purchasing necessaries.

Then came the difficulty of getting to the front. The Royal Army Medical Corps had already provided very large hospital accommodation, and it was not thought at first at all probable that the Australian hospital would manage to get to the front. They moved to the coast while waiting for orders, and while the commanding officer, Colonel Eames, was away in London buying supplies, orders came from the district commandant that they were to embark at once for France. Colonel Horne wanted to await the return of his superior officer, but was informed that orders were orders, and that he must get away to France without delay. The whole outfit was then hurriedly put on board ship, and sailed for the Continent, and when the commanding officer came back to his hospital that night he found that it had gone, not a trace of it left. When embarking, Colonel Horne obtained from the embarking officer written orders as to embarking, and these were very useful to him later on. When they got to France they would not have been able to land only for having these orders in writing.

AT HAVRE AND ST. NAZAIRE.

They first went to Havre, but it was thought to be too close to the German lines, and, after a couple of exciting nights spent in a stable, with all hands ready for an immediate move, they were once more put on board ship and taken to St. Nazaire. Here they set up their tents and began work, and the fact that Captain Harris had purchased a small and portable X-ray outfit was of the greatest assistance to them. He had his apparatus working in very quick time, and before long, so far from being short of work they were absolutely inundated with patients. Then came the days when the Germans drew down towards St. Nazaire, and before long a train came and picked up the whole outfit, and transplanted it down to Wimereux, near Boulogne, where a large hotel had been secured to serve as a hospital.

The staff put up tents for their own accommodation, but Wimereux is one of the windiest places in the world, and these tents were blown flat. It so happened that a large building used by some scientific association as a laboratory was near the hospital and was vacant, and this was transformed into a home for the nurses. The orderlies and rank and file of the men, motor drivers, etc. were quartered in a smaller hotel, which was also vacant at the time, while Colonel Eames and his staff rented the empty golf club, and thus in a matter of a few days the whole establishment was comfortably housed and hard at work.

BADLY WOUNDED PATIENTS.

The hospital was equipped with 200 beds for patients, and before they could get the hotel furniture out of the hotel and put the beds in they were overwhelmed with something like 170 patients, mostly badly wounded men. These had to be laid in corridors and halls on their stretchers until such time as the beds were ready for them; but by downright hard work on the part of the nurses it was not long before everybody was accomodated and the surgeons were busy X-raying, cutting and probing and cleaning up the terrible work of war. After the hospital was established Mr. Shields, a Melbourne surgeon, who has also a hospital in Park-lane, came over and worked for a time with the staff of the hospital, being desirous of extending the scope of his operations. Mr. Shields and Lady Dudley visited Paris and made ararngements to rent a large hotel there, but no patients being forthcoming in that theatre of the war the idea was abandoned, and Dr. Shields soon after severed his connection with the hospital.

CONSULTANTS FROM SYDNEY.

The hospital staff were soon afterwards strengthened materially by the arrival of Sir Alexander MacCormick and Dr. Thring, from Sydney, both of whom joined the staff as consultants. The hospital is some four miles from Boulogne, and the patients are brought out and taken away again by motor ambulances, many of the motors being driven by volunteers, who, in some cases, presented the cars themselves. Among these volunteer motor drivers is Mr. B. C. Bell, of Camboon Station, Queensland, and Mr. Hanrick, whose parents have station property at the back of Townsville.

The work of bringing the wounded in and out is no sinecure, as they have to be left at any time that a train comes in, and very little notice is given when a ship is ready to take away such men as are fit to travel. On these occasions a string of ten or fifteen motor cars, all loaded with wounded, may be seen threading their way from the hospital to Boulogne, and it is a very difficult matter driving over the cobble stones of Boulogne without seriously hurting the wounded men by the jolting.

FROST-BITE AND PNEUMONIA.

Any history of the work done by the hospital could not be attempted within the limits of one article. They have had all sorts of cases through their hands, beginning with very seriously wounded men while the fighting was hot, and, latterly, of course, of frost bite and pneumonia suffered by the unfortunate men in the trenches during the wet spell. Through it all the one outstanding feature has not been the skill of the surgeons, great as that is, but the untiring care and kindliness shown by the nurses in doing their really severe work, looking after the wounded men.

Letter after letter has been received from the rank and file men, who have been through the hospital, conveying their warmest thanks for what has been done for them.

[Since the above letter was written the death of Sir Robert Lucas-Tooth has been announced.]

FLAGSHIP'S VICTIM.

AUSTRALIA FIRES SIX SHOTS.

A FIVE-HOUR CHASE.

Further particulars have been received regarding the sinking of a German supply ship in January last by H.M.A.S. Australia, off Patagonia, recently reported by cablegram. It is now considered certain that the vessel was the Eleonore Woermann (4624 tons), of the Woermann line, which acted as a supply ship to the late Admiral Von Spee's squadron.

A seaman on board the Australia, in a letter describing the five-hour chase which led to the destruction of the German auxiliary cruiser, states that the latter was travelling at 18 knots, while the Australia did 19 knots.

A 12in shell across the German's bows at a range of 19,000 yards caused her to heave to. As the Germans refused to work their boats the Australia took the crew, numbering 99, on board, after giving them time to get their gear out of the ship.

The Australia then gave the ship two 12in shells in her superstructure, four 4in below the waterline, the vessel sinking in 25 minutes.

The fact that H.M.A.S. Australia was only doing 19 knots indicates that she was in no great hurry to overtake the German, as she could easily have exceeded this speed by five or six knots.

PUBLIC WORKS.

MR. GRIFFITH'S REVIEW.

DAY LABOUR SYSTEM.

The various State Ministers to whom new departments have been allotted will to-day be formally appointed, and Mr. Grahame will be sworn in as Assistant Minister.

On Saturday Mr. Griffith, who is to take up the administrative duties of the Education Department, and leave Public Works in the hands of Mr. Cann, indulged in a retrospect.

"I quite agree with the views of the Premier," said Mr. Griffith, "that the progressive and efficient control of the Education Department is of more vital in rest to the Labour movement than any other single department of the State. The only means by which the child of the poor man can be given anything like an equality of opportunity with the children of the wealthier classes is by placing the possibilities of mental development within his reach, and that, of course, can be done only through the agency of the Public Instruction Department.

"At the same time I feel deeply having to leave uncompleted the big national developmental works which I have commenced. It may be a form of vanity on my part, but I was in hopes that the city railway, which will make our metropolis one of the most up-to-date of the world, and the Murray River conservation scheme, which will change the face of Riverina, should not merely have been originated and designed under my control, but actually carried out. However, I am pleased to be able to say that I am leaving to my successor a department much stronger and more efficiently organised than it has ever previously been in its history.

"The establishment of the industrial undertakings (all of which with one exception are already paying concerns) renders the department no longer dependent for its supplies on the brick combines, timber rings, metal trusts, and manufacturers of structural steel and iron works, water pipes, etc., which, under former regimes, had the department at their mercy. The day-labour system on our larger public works is now so firmly established, and so efficiently controlled, that I do not believe even an anti-Labour Government would attempt to abolish it.

"I admit I have had a pretty hard time while initiating these reforms. I have been compelled often to come into conflict with unreasonable bodies of workmen who desired to take the control of public works out of the hands of the management, but on the whole I would like to say that the various union executives have exercised their great influence in keeping unreasonable workmen within reasonable bounds, and the requests made to the department by the unions on behalf of the workmen have in almost all cases been quite just and temperate. Of course there have been exceptions. In one case I was compelled to fall foul of a big union, which endeavoured to compel me to stop the running of trains on a partially completed railway line under my control on account of a dispute between some of its members and some of the farmers for whom we were hauling produce, but in resisting such a grotesque attack upon public administration I had the support, I believe, of the bulk of the unionists of the State.

"My conflict with the big vested interests of the metropolis was of a much more serious nature. The moment the men controlling the Sydney combines found I was attacking their monopolies in earnest, and making financial successes of the industrial undertakings I was establishing, they did not scruple to inaugurate against me, both in Parliament and out of it, a campaign of pestilential slander, both personal and political. Almost every public work I undertook was made the subject either of slanderous innuendo or of downright calumny. The total amount voted by Parliament for the current financial year for all the works and services of the department, inclusive of the water boards, was a little under five and a quarter millions. During the eight months ended 28th ultimo, I had expended well under three millions, and have left a sum of over two and a quarter millions to cover the remaining four months. Assuming that the same rate of expenditure be maintained to the end of the financial year, there will be a tidy sum of over three-quarters of a million standing as savings on votes on 30th June next, with which to commence the new financial year."

NATIVE TREES.

DANISH SCIENTIST'S PLEA.

Dr. Mortensen, the Danish scientist, who has been engaged in research work in Australia and New Zealand ever since the sitting of the Science Congress in August last, left by the Sonoma on Saturday for Honolulu.

Dr. Mortensen considers it a pity that so few native trees are to be seen in the neighbourhood of Sydney. Willows, oaks, poplars, firs, and cypresses were beautiful, but did not belong to the country. "Even your weeds, such as thistles and gorse, are introduced," he said. He failed to understand why people wanted to grow trees from other parts when their own were so unique and so beautiful. He was sorry to see that trees had been cut in many cases where it was not necessary. He hoped that a sentiment for trees would be encouraged in the schools, and that arbour day would become a reality, and not a mere name, and that when they planted trees they would select gums and wattles, and other trees of the Australian bush in preference to those from the old world.

I.W.W. AND MR. BLACK.

"ONE OF THE OLD BRIGADE."

At the last meeting of the Socialist I.W.W., the continued prosecution of street speakers was discussed. It was stated that more toleration was expected from the appointment of Mr. George Black as Chief Secretary, as the new Minister was in the bygone days "one of the old brigade" of pioneer socialists, and not likely to uphold anything savouring of persecution of the evangelists of his old-time faith.

The secretary, Mr. George Waite, was deputed to convey "a fraternal request" to Mr. Black that the drastic new regulations be modified, to prevent the penalising of socialist apostles who, in obedience to the Divine command to go into the highways and byways, deemed it their duty to bid the workers beware of the snares and pitfalls of present-day legislation, which curtails citizen rights, without resulting in corresponding benefits to the toiling democracy."

VICTORIA'S LOAN.

BRISBANE, Saturday.

The State Treasury this morning received £210,700, the balance of the loan of £310,700 given by the Queensland Government to Victoria. The payment was due yesterday.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

CITY OF WONDER AND MYSTERY.

THE TWO VOICES.

Travellers have seen in the approach to Constantinople a likeness to Sydney Harbour. You can look up the Bosphorus with the wonderful city of Constantine the Great in the distance, and fancy you are gazing from a North Shore ferryboat on the waters and the headlands of Port Jackson, with Sydney in the distance. But what a difference in the two cities—Sydney, which is so new, Constantinople, which is so old and so wonderful, so full of history, so unique.

INCOMPARABLE BEAUTY.

One can imagine no more lovely scene than that which opens up as one approaches this historic city from the Sea of Marmora; at once so bright, so varied in outline, so rich in colour, so gorgeous in architecture. On the left the quaint old battlements extend from the Seraglio Point to the Seven Towers, a distance of about four miles; and over them rise in picturesque confusion the terraced roofs, domes, and minarets of Stamboul. To the right the white mansions, cemeteries, and cypress groves of Skutari—the Asiatic quarter—extend as far as the eye can reach. In the centre is the opening of the Bosphorus, revealing a vista of incomparable loveliness. The steamer glides on, sweeps round the Seraglio Point, and drops anchor in the Golden Horn; and a view that is grander still, and still more interesting, unfolds itself. Southwards rise in succession the seven low hills of Old Byzantium—for it was a city built, like Rome, on seven hills—crowned with domes and tapering minarets, and buttresses, with fantastic houses, and the walls which, though all shattered now, so often baffled Goth and Bulgar, Persian and Ottoman, in the age of archers and Greek fire. Northward of the long Horn, above the crowded buildings and Genoese tower of Old Galata, are the heights of Pera, gay and fresh, with the comparatively new—and at present unused—residences of European ambassadors.

Nowhere in the world will you find scenes so gay and animated and so bizarre as here in this city of the Golden Horn. It is on water as it is on land. We speak, of course, of times of peace. Great ironclads lie at anchor within a cable's length of the Sultan's palace; steamers from every country in Europe are ranged in double rows opposite the quays of Tophane, the chief arsenal of Turkey; corn ships from Odessa or the Danube lie side by side with graceful Greek feluccas, and Turkish coasters; hundreds of caiques flit to and fro, with loads of gold-bedizened Beys, or veiled women. But now . . .

ANOTHER PICTURE.

Mr. Robert Hichens has given us a picture of Constantinople in war time. He was there when Turkey was preparing feverishly for war—not this great war, but the last one. The streets were blocked with trains of artillery. The steamers in the harbour were vomiting forth regiments of infantry. Patrols of horsemen paraded the city. Constantinople was like one vast camp. "On my first night in Pera, when, weary with my efforts to obtain some general conception of what the spectacular monster really was, what it wanted, what it meant, what it was about to do, I had at length fallen asleep toward dawn. I was wakened by a prolonged clattering row beneath my windows. I got up, opened the shutters, and looked out. And below me, in the semi-darkness, I saw interminable lines of soldiers passing; officers on horseback, men tramping with knapsacks on their backs, and rifles over their shoulders; then artillery, gun-carriages, with soldiers sitting loosely on them, holding one another's hands; guns, horses, more horses, with officers riding them; then trains of loaded mules. On and on they went, and always more were coming behind. I watched them till I was tired, descending to the darkness of Galata, to the blackness of old Stamboul.

"Gradually, as the days passed by, I began to understand something of the city, to realise never what it wanted or what it really meant, but something of what it was. It seemed to me then like a person with two natures uneasily housed in one perturbed body. These two natures were startlingly different the one from the other. One was to me hateful—Pera, with Galata touching it. The other was not to be understood by me, but it held me with an indifferent grasp, and from it to me there flowed a strange and almost rustic melancholy that I cared for—Stamboul. And between these two natures a gulf was fixed—the gulf of the Golden Horn."

A CITY OF MOSQUES.

Pera is a city of tall, discoloured houses resembling those of Naples; of embassies and churches, of glittering shops and cafes, of noisy and unattractive hotels. There is no rest, no peace there. But it has a wonderful interest because of its multitude of human types, gathered from all over the East and from all the nations of Europe. Stamboul, the other, is a city of wood and marble, of dusty, frail houses, of magnificent mosques as old as the centuries—the mosque of Santa Sophia, of the Sultan Achmet, with its six exquisite minarets, of Mohammed the Conqueror, of Suleiman the Magnificent, and many others. Romance broods over Stamboul. It entices you; it grips you. Over everything is a sense of mystery. The things it has seen. The story it can tell, Stamboul!

Stamboul, the city of mosques. Especially the city of Santa Sophia, which for its unique beauty stands apart from all other buildings. Outside it is the massiveness, not the beauty, of Santa Sophia that impresses, but it is all glorious within. It has nine gates, leading to it from a great corridor, lined with marble and roofed with old-gold mosaic. Just within are the two fountains of ablution, great vases of grey marble. Grey and gold—grey and gold, but mingled with many hues. The great dome is one hundred and seventy-nine feet high. Myriads of giant chandeliers hang from the roof. Two-storied aisles flank the nave, through which men wander looking like small dolls, so huge is the mosque. And during the last war this beautiful place was crowded with suffering fugitives, with dying soldiers and cholera patients!

Wonderful, too—magnificent as its name—is the Mosque of Suleiman the Magnificent, which stands on the third of Stamboul's seven hills. In the garden are the tombs of the magnificent one and of Roxalana, "the joyous one," a captive from Russia, who, by her charm and power, subdued a nation's ruler, shared the throne of the Sultan, and guided him in the ways of crime. What he did for Roxalana's sake is a matter of history. Now they sleep together in the tomb.

"PERHAPS IN OUR DAY."

"One morning, as I sat beneath the noble figtree which guards Roxalana's tomb, and listened to the voice of the muezzin floating over old Stamboul," says Mr. Hitchens. "I thought of the influence of cities. Does not Stamboul for ever incite to intrigue, to lawlessness, to bloodshed? The muezzin calls to prayer, but from old Stamboul arises another voice sending forth an opposing summons. Suleiman heard it echoed by Roxalana, and slew his son; Roxalana heard and obeyed it; and how many others have listened and been fatally moved by it! It has sounded even across the waters of the sea and over the forests of Yildiz; and Armenians have been slain by thousands while Europe looked on. And perhaps in our day, and after we are gone, old Stamboul will command from its seven hills and will be horribly obeyed."

Such is Constantinople, the city of mosques and baths and vast bazaars, the city whose beauty amazes, with its glory of architecture, of ships, of seas and mountains—a city lying in the shadow of its marvellous walls, guarded by innumerable towers and girdled by forests of cypresses, like some great magician, glittering, mysterious, crafty, praying, singing, intriguing, assassinating, looking to East and West, watchful, and full of fanaticism.

Sir John French later telegraphed that some further progress had been made by the Seventh Division towards Aubers. The fighting was very severe.

"The enemy has been reinforced opposite my right by at least two divisions," adds the message. "We captured 612 prisoners, and I believe more are coming in.

Officers of H.M.S. Triumph relate that the battleships were for some time under a tornado of shells. The Triumph was seventeen times in action, and fired two thousand rounds. She was hit fourteen times, and her funnel was riddled.

One shell penetrated a turret where there were fifteen men, but only one was killed. Another shell entered the commander's cabin.

When landing parties blew up the forts, huge pieces of wreckage were hurled nearly across the straits.

BRITISH STEAMERS SUNK.

AUXILIARY CRUISER.

HEAVY DEATH-ROLL.

LONDON, March 13.

The Admiralty reports that the auxiliary cruiser Bayano, 5948 tons, was sunk on Thursday off the West Coast. The vessel was probably torpedoed.

Twenty-six of the crew were saved, and 194 are missing.

It was pitch dark when the Bayano was struck off Corsewell Point. The vessel sunk in a few minutes. Many of the crew were asleep at the time. There was no panic, and every man went to his post. Some of the boats were cut away, but they were smashed in their descent to the water.

Captain Carr said to a sailor who was giving out lifebelts, "Good lad, save yourself." The captain stood on the bridge cool and collected as the ship went down. The bulk of the men were drawn into the vortex created by the sinking boat. One sailor was jammed between the funnel and a stay, and was carried down into the sea. He, however, succeeded in releasing himself, and came to the surface.

The steamer Balgrino rescued 18 men. They had been four hours in the water, and were exhausted. Some of the men were clinging to an upturned boat; others were on rafts. The patrol ship also rescued eight men. At the time of the disaster the Bayano was doing patrol work. Only 26 members of the crew were saved. The commander and 13 of his officers are among the missing.

The steamer Castlereagh on Thursday morning passed a quantity of wreckage, and a number of lifebelted bodies were seen. She was searching for survivors when a submarine sighted her, and chased her for 20 minutes.

NEUVE CHAPELLE.

A THRILLING STORY.

THE BRITISH CHARGE.

FRENCH ARTILLERY FIRE.

PARIS, March 14.

The British success at Neuve Chapelle has aroused the greatest enthusiasm.

In the battle, after several attempts were made to dislodge the enemy from the village, a turning movement was decided upon.

The French artillery on Tuesday night prepared the way for the advance, and compelled the enemy to evacuate the first line of trenches. The German artillery was helpless.

Fearing a diversion, the Germans did not dare to diminish the immediate defences of the village, and this lost them the battle.

On Wednesday morning the British soldiers waited impatiently for the word to advance. As the command was given there was a spontaneous yell from thousands of throats. The "Tommies," with their glittering bayonets, presented a magnificent spectacle. They overwhelmed the surprised Germans, and passed rapidly from trench to trench. Sometimes in their charge they rolled over each other in the mud.

The Germans detected the manoeuvre too late, and hurried every available man into the fighting line in a futile attempt to force a passage through the British lines, but the British firing paralysed the onrush, and most of the German soldiers surrendered without a struggle.

The British completely surrounded the village, and, profiting by the enemies' disarray, they advanced in the afternoon to Pietre cross-roads, some 1000 yards from the village. The Germans were reinforced, and commenced a vigorous counter-attack. They did not gain an inch of ground, but sustained heavy losses. They afterwards rapidly entrenched themselves in a strong position in front of Aubers, where they opened a terrible machine and gun fire, and inflicted severe losses on the British. The British troops, however, have a firm grip upon the new positions. An artillery combat is now raging.

FRENCH APPRECIATION.

The "Matins" correspondent expresses warm appreciation of the fighting of the British and Canadian troops at Neuve Chapelle.

The men's faces beamed, he says, and they sang gaily as they returned from the front.

There are several hundred officers among the prisoners taken, and they are haughty, stiff, and swaggering in their demeanour. Many of the prisoners are elderly men and boys. They were a sorry sight, and appeared greatly depressed. The correspondent adds that some of the German General Staff have left Lille, and are travelling towards Tournai.

TERRIFIC FIRE.

OLD SCORES PAID OFF.

LONDON, March 14.

"Eye-witness" with the British Headquarters Staff, says: Our offensive at Neuve Chapelle was attended with signal success. The fire of the many guns and howitzers opening the bombardment is described as the most tremendous, both in noise and effect, that the army had ever heard. Within half an hour after the signal for the attack was given, almost the whole of the elaborate series of German trenches was in our hands. There was hardly any resistance, except at one point.

Many trenches were blotted out, being filled with dead and dying, partially buried in earth and debris. The majority of the survivors were in no mood for further fighting. Meanwhile, on the right from Richebourg, a similar advance was progressing towards the rectangular Riez wood, a thousand yards south-east of Neuve Chapelle. The resistance was slight, and we reached a point four hundred yards from the wood.

The troops at Neuve Chapelle advanced four hundred yards eastward, and others moved northward. The fighting lasted long after darkness. The enemy was then considerably shaken, and they were surrendering in some parts in groups.

The Germans throughout the day held a strong position, nicknamed "Port Arthur," at the angle of the cross-roads southward of the village—a perfect network of trenches and barbed-wire. The struggle raged until half-past 5, when the position was stormed and carried with the bayonets. The British troops showed utmost dash throughout the operations.

The consciousness that old scores were being paid off, and that the enemy for the time being was beaten, and on the run filled the hospitals and ambulances with the cheeriest crowd of wounded men.

An airman destroyed the pier of the railway bridge at Menin, and another completely wrecked the Courtrai station, both of which are of vital importance to the enemy's communications.

HAVRE, March 14.

Two thousand German prisoners from Neuve Chapelle have arrived at Havre on their way to England.

WAR NOTES.

THE DARDANELLES.

The Allied ships are still battering away at "The Narrows" in the Dardanelles, and are apparently finding them a particularly hard nut to crack. Although a tremendous amount of damage must have been done by the naval guns during the past few days, still many of the admirably placed cannon on shore continue to contest vigorously the passage of the ships. Two significant items are included in this morning's cables. One is to the effect that "the enemy's fire has improved—probably owing to the arrival of German gunners"; and the other speaks of the fleet finding it necessary to bombard the light batteries commanding Morto Bay. The first item suggests that the ships operating inside the straits are getting a particularly warm time of it, and we must not be surprised to have this news followed by an intimation that the Allies' casualties have not been negligible. So far, we have been given no idea as to how the fleet has fared at the hands of the Turks; but in view of the protracted operations right inside the straits it seems hardly possible that the bombarding squadrons have not suffered more or less severely. The second item, referring to the bombardment in Morto Bay, bespeaks a grim determination on the part of the Turco-German defenders to fight till the last. Morto Bay is the first indentation on the European side within the straits, just east of Cape Helles. The light batteries commanding it, which were silenced after the fall of Sedd-el-Bahr, have now either begun to spit defiance at the Allied ships once more, or the Turks have been found to be so busily at work upon them that if left alone they would soon be in action again. It is, of course, essential that any forts at the entrance to the straits should be permanently put out of action; otherwise they would represent a serious menace in the rear of the ships operating against "The Narrows." That they will soon be effectively dealt with is only to be expected, and doubtless the landing parties that will be sent ashore when the ships' guns have done their work will make a clean sweep of the various positions. In the meantime, the point to be emphasised is that the fleet, though doing admirable work, is still south of "The Narrows," and it were unwise to expect news of the forcing of that formidable passage for some days to come.

THE WESTERN FRONT.

In the western theatre of the war the British have consolidated their great success in the Neuve Chapelle district, and have beaten off several counter attacks. The official German messages state that the counter attacks have been discontinued, owing to the superiority in numbers of the British. However, evidence is accumulating to show that the enemy is concentrating a formidable force in the region between Ypres and La Basse, and the next few days should witness a determined attempt to regain the lost ground, if not to actually smash through the Allied line, and win a way to long desired Calais. But the British must by now be in very much greater force than they were when the last big German effort was made in this region, and we may look forward to the immediate future with confidence. It seems hardly possible that the Germans can make such concentration as on that last occasion, for just now they have to meet one very determined French offensive in the Champagne district, and a second in Alsace, besides a vigorously renewed activity on the part of the Belgians in the north. Added to this, Field Marshal von Hindenburg is clamouring for more and more reinforcements, not only to check the Russians, where they are advancing, but also to enable him to make his next great counter-stroke. If the Allies can continue the pressure they are now bringing to bear in the four important sections of the western front—the Belgian coast, Ypres-Arras, Champagne, and Alsace—they should, within a few weeks, put the numerical strength of the Germans to a critical test, and bring the Prussian General Staff hard up against that problem which has so long been looming in the distance: How to hold back the Allies without contracting their line.

FINE AERIAL WORK.

The Allies' airmen seem to have been especially active during the past week, and they have carried out some particularly effective work behind the German front. One of them destroyed a pier of the railway bridge at Menin, a highly important junction on the river Lys, about 12 miles north-east of Lille, and a similar distance south-east of Ypres. Four lines converge here—from Roulers in the north, Courtrai in the east, Roubaix in the south, and Armentieres in the west. Then another completely destroyed the station at Courtrai, an even more important junction, for no less than seven railways practically meet there, including the main lines from Ghent and Brussels to Lille. Again, the Douai junction has been destroyed—the meeting-place of lines from Lille, Valenciennes, Cambrai, and Arras. And, finally, the points have been wrecked at Don, where a branch goes off from the Lille-Arras line to La Bassee. Taken as a whole this represents a remarkable achievement, and it is one that must seriously inconvenience the enemy's communications. No indication is given by our side as to any casualties being sustained among the raiding airmen; but an official German message claims that three British pilots were shot down. It is too sanguine to believe that this sort of work can be carried out without loss; but it is left to us to hope that the German communique is, as usual, just a little over-stated. In any case, casualties or no, the work will go on, and there will be no one more keen about it than the airmen themselves. As witness the following letter written by a flight-lieutenant on January 11:—"I must tell you something about the beano we had yesterday. It was a day. Engaged with three Taubes in the morning and in the afternoon—and I went and dropped 18 bombs and 6 grenades on various works and the railway at Ostend, with incidentally another scrap with a German machine. Hope we tickled them up and gave them —— at Ostend. We've got 'em scared stiff—absolutely. It's a great game entirely. I hope we get to hear about what damage we did at Ostend, though I'm afraid it's improbable. I know I got the railway with one bomb—a clinking shot right in the middle. I tell you they let us have it. The machine was hit in nine places."

THE BELGIAN ARMY.

A correspondent of "The Autocar," in an article on January 30, detailing some of his impressions while with the Red Cross service in Flanders, states incidentally:—"As we came back to our hospital base we passed on the way some resolute-looking Belgian infantry regiments marching to the front, the long line of faces, shining whitely in the powerful glare of our two great head-lights. The English public wants to know what has become of 'the remnants of the Belgian army.' Well, 'remnants' is altogether the wrong word to use, for, as a matter of fact, that army is reorganised and recruited, and is now a larger and a stronger army than it was at the beginning of the war. Confidence is re-established, too. Aeroplanes may sail over towns and drop bombs, but the enemy has shot his bolt, and cannot further advance. The trenches made in view of his success, and never yet used, are being filled in again, and the wooden sluices cut in the sides of the canals, for the purpose of instantly flooding those low-lying lands not yet under water, are being abolished." This is a heartening picture of the little army that played such an heroic part in the early days of the war; and in view of these few lines we can read with special interest the cablegram of this morning:—"Two divisions of the Belgians progressed 500 metres, notably in the direction of Schoorbakke, south-east of Nieuport."

FIRE AT AUBURN.

About 1 o'clock this morning a five-roomed house in Harrow-street, Auburn, unoccupied, and owned by Mr. G. H. Dowell, was completely destroyed by fire. The building was insured in the United Insurance Company for £400. The house adjoining, also containing five rooms, owned by Mr. Hucks, together with the contents, was severely damaged by fire and water.

LATE WAR NEWS.

THE U29.

THREE VICTIMS.

LONDON, March 14.

The attack on the Indian City, near the Scilly Islands on Friday, by the German submarine U29 was witnessed ashore.

The submarine chased the Headlands and soon overtook her, and torpedoed her after the crew had quitted the vessel. The submarine afterwards pursued the Andalusian until out of sight of land.

NEUTRAL TORPEDOED.

The Swedish steamer Hanna was sunk off Scarborough. Fourteen persons were saved and six lost, the latter apparently being killed by the explosion.

An officer states that he saw the torpedo that sank her, but the submarine was invisible. The Hanna's name and nationality were painted from the rail to the waterline.

ANOTHER VICTIM.

LONDON, March 14.

The U29 has sunk the French steamer Auguste Conseil (2952 tons) off Start Point. The crew were saved.

BROUGHT DOWN.

ANOTHER ZEPPELIN.

LONDON, March 14.

The Exchange Telegraph Company is in receipt of a message that two British and two French aeroplanes brought down a Zeppelin in Belgium.

Twenty-one members of the crew were killed and twenty seriously injured.

GERMAN OFFICER.

TRIES TO LEAVE AUSTRALIA.

DEATH ON SONOMA.

Lieutenant Martin Katzer, a German officer brought down from New Guinea after its occupation by Colonel Holmes and the Australian Expeditionary Force was missed on Saturday.

He managed to get on board the steamer Sonoma on Saturday at noon, on which vessel it is understood he had or bought accomplices, as he was possessed of plenty of money. He was stowed away in one of the lifeboats, the cover of which was securely laced down; and, though the Sonoma was rigorously searched prior to sailing, he remained undiscovered until the vessel was off the Sow and Pigs Reef, near Watson's Bay. A passenger on the deck heard groans proceeding from the lifeboat, and on the lacings being undone Katzer was discovered gasping from heat apoplexy.

The matter was reported to the police, but before Inspector Spence could arrive in the Argus Katzer had breathed his last.

The body of Lieutenant Katzer was identified at the morgue yesterday morning by Major R. S. Sands and Captain Von Klewitz, the officer who was in charge of the defences at Rabaul.

Lieutenant Katzer had been a planter in New Guinea, but, being on the reserve of officers, took up arms on the declaration of war, and fought against the Australian troops.

NATIONAL RESERVE.

FINE WEEK-END'S WORK.

The National Reserve, mobilised on Saturday and turned out 225 strong, under Captain F. Forsyth Cheffins, Captain Lang-Bridge, and Lieutenant Marcroft, to take part in a strenuous week-end's work.

The men fell in at Circular Quay at 2 p.m. The following units paraded:—A.S.C., under Lieuts. Royle and Mulready; A.M.C., under Lieuts. Cochrane and Brain; engineers, under Lieut. Fisher; signallers, under Lieut. Sullivan; intelligence corps, under Lieut. Graham Wilson; mounted rifles, under Captain Lang-Bridge; motor cyclists, under Lieut. Tom Henderson; and the Highland company, with pipers and drummers, under Captain Peterson.

With the exception of the mounted rifles, motor cyclists, and transport, who crossed the harbour by punt, the troops crossed by the North Shore ferry, and, entraining, reached Gordon at 3 p.m. They marched, in full kit, nine miles to their bivouac, and, after a meal, cooked in the open, turned in. They were awakened at 6 on Sunday morning for a day's field exercise.

Referring to the work performed by this miniature army, Captain Cheffins said:—"It was the first time we have had our own transport section. The motor cyclist corps, which has only been formed a few weeks, paraded with over £2500 worth of machines. Their work in all respects was invaluable. I would also like to say that the parade reflects credit on the corps, for many of our men are only working men, yet they paid the whole cost of the week-end, travelling, rations, and everything else, out of their own pockets. We should prove, in fact, we are, a very useful, mobile force."

LATE LIEUTENANT CHISHOLM.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

A memorial service was held at St. Stephen's Church, Phillip-street, city, on Sunday morning, in memory of the late Lieutenant Malcolm William Chisholm, son of Dr. William Chisholm, formerly of Macquarie-street, who died of his wounds at Ligny on August 26 last.

The service was conducted by the Rev. John Ferguson, and among those present were Sir T. Anderson Stuart, Professor Watt, Dr. Bell, Mr. James Mitchell (Inspector-General of Police), Messrs. Hector Kidd, H. Adamson, and J. M. Pringle. Major Murray represented the District Commandant, and was accompanied by Colonel Jobson, 34th Infantry, and many other officers of deceased's old regiment, the 25th Infantry (Scottish Rifles), and 3rd Battalion Senior Cadets. A company of the former regiment, with the band, also attended.

The Rev. J. Ferguson said that deceased, whose family when in Sydney had been members of St. Stephen's Church for many years past, was a lieutenant in the East Lancashire Regiment (the old 30th of the Line). When the present catastrophic war broke out the regiment was ordered to the front. He left home on Friday, August 21, on which day his regiment moved to Southampton. On Saturday it reached Havre, on Tuesday morning it was entrained for Le Cateau, the battle front, where it arrived at 6 in the evening, and bivouacked in a farmyard. On Wednesday they rose early, and were in action by 4 a.m. Lieutenant Chisholm was in the thick of the fray till 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when he fell mortally wounded by a splinter of shrapnel.

One of Lieutenant Chisholm's closest chums told him, continued Mr. Ferguson, that during the engagement the enemy came sweeping upon the East Lancashires in an overwhelming flood. There were no trenches or cover, and the regiment had to retire fighting every inch of the way. Another officer, writing to Dr. Chisholm, stated that he came along with the rearguard, and on his way passed Lieutenant Chisholm lying in a cornfield. Though the lieutenant begged to be left where he fell, a stretcher was made of rifles and a great coat, and the wounded officer was carried to a hospital at Ligny. This the Germans promptly captured, so that it was not until two months later that the anxious-minded parents obtained any news of their son. Lieutenant Chisholm was the first Australian officer to fall in the war, and was buried by the Roman Catholic priest in the parish church at Ligny. Mr. Ferguson said that Lieutenant Chisholm's last words on the field to his N.C.O. and men were:—"They've done for me all right, but don't bother about me. Let my people know that I died fighting like a soldier."

A FRENCH REGIMENT'S FLAG SAVED.

The heroic conduct of a French soldier is mentioned in an order of the day (states a Central News telegram from Paris). A French patrol was surprised by the Germans, and had to retreat. The flag was in imminent danger of being captured, and Corporal Chassignol of the 328th Infantry Regiment, took charge of it. After the fight his dead body was found and brought back to the French lines. Wrapped round his body, under his coat, was found the Tricolour. The young hero was 17 years old.

BREAD.

A STATE MONOPOLY.

MR. HALL'S SCHEME.

EXPLAINED TO MASTER BAKERS.

More than 200 master bakers from all parts of New South Wales listened patiently on Saturday night while the State Attorney-General, Mr. Hall, explained how he, and not they, would bake the bread of the people in future.

Master bakers were warned that if any of them came forward with suggestions of payment of any secret commission, and so forth, in order to get preferential treatment their establishment would be once and for all disqualified. He said he and others were being besieged by master bakers who wished to get in early in the sale of their establishments. Master bakers were told their bakeries were old-fashioned, and that even if the Government did not acquire them they would be closed down by reason of competition on the part of the large supplying companies, which would certainly open up-to-date automatic bakeries in Sydney within the next few years. Half a million pounds would be required to acquire all the businesses and bakeries the Government would need in the metropolitan area. Of the 200 odd bakeries the Government would need about 35 to 40 of them for a start, and later on fewer still. The Government proposed to acquire every man's run, and pay him a reasonable value per ton for the business; but he did not feel obliged to pay for bakeries which he did not propose to acquire under the scheme. The scheme, if approved, would not be completed during the war. Considerate treatment would be given by the Government to all men displaced, and the public's gain as a result of the scheme was to be a saving of a penny on a 2lb loaf.

The president of the N.S.W. Master Bakers' Association, Mr. C. Dyer, presided over the meeting, which was held at Scott's Cafe, Strand Arcade.

"You can call this scheme socialistic in character," said Mr. Hall, "and I shall not deny it. It is a scheme I have not promoted for fun; it is one I shall have to battle through. The State could be as merciless in its treatment of both you and your employees as the private company has been in America, and even in parts of Australia. It could by open competition ruthlessly destroy the value of your businesses. This we do not propose to do. The Labour movement is not united as to whether we ought to buy out those bakers in the business at present or to try the more heartless business of entering into competition. It would cost us more to kill you than to buy you out. The trade could not continue as it had done in the past, whether the Government interfered or not. Machine production of bread would soon replace the present methods, and large monopolies would undertake this within the next 10 years, but the Government proposed to anticipate this, and to take the lead in forming a monopoly, which would be run in the interests of the people and not shareholders. If the State establishes a monopoly in the supply of bread it will be able to sell at a penny a 2lb loaf less than you master bakers can. In abnormal times, such as the present, when bread is 4d a loaf, we could sell with profit at 3d. When bread is 3½d we could profitably sell at 2½d. The introduction of expensive machinery is the main factor in the creation of trusts. The finest political economists tell us so. So long as a man could with £100 start a bakery combination was difficult, but the master baker of the future must be prepared to place £25,000 in his enterprise. To get into the business you will need to be able to talk in thousands, and no in hundreds of pounds. (Some laughter.) Now, take boots——

A voice: Mr. Hall, you know no more about baking bread than the child unborn. (Laughter.)

Mr. Hall: Most unkind of you, Sir. I was getting warmed up. (Loud laughter.) Even if the Government does not interfere there will within 10 years be established in all the larger centres of New South Wales monopolies in the supply of bread as profitable as, say, the Colonial Sugar Refining Company.

The Government would gain, he continued, by large purchases of flour, by paying rent and management charges on 35 to 40 bakeries at first, and, perhaps, only 10 later on instead of on 200; by ceasing to advertise and paying carters to steal customers, by cheaper delivery, by having no bad debts. The Government, with one establishment was turning out bread and making £80 a week profit.

The voice: They're not loaves, they're bricks; people with artificial teeth can't eat it. (Laughter.)

Mr. Hall: Those "gags" are all-right between you and your customers, but between us chaps they're no good. (Laughter.)

A voice: Give me the monopoly you propose to give the Government, and I could sell at 1d a loaf cheaper.

Mr. Hall: Precisely you could, but would you? (Laughter.)

A voice: You will displace a great amount of labour if you close 160 bakeries.

Mr. Hall: I don't think you are doing a chap a good turn by giving him a job in a Sydney bakery on these hot days. We don't want to give unnecessary labour; work is a thing we all try to avoid; we don't want to create work. If we did we could wreck the power-house and set chaps to pull the trams. (Laughter.)

The Government, Mr. Hall continued, in selling bread, would either sell for cash or sell books of coupons to be exchanged for loaves. The savings he had outlined would enable the Government to sell at 1d a loaf less than the master baker received, give the people a reduction of £25,000 a week in their bread bill, and, at the same time, make a large profit of the new State industry.

Mr. Hall said a board of experts would be appointed to decide upon the purchases of places. Purchases will be made on their merits. You will not receive the amount that would be paid if it was not known that the existing factories would be "scrapped" in the next five or six years, but you will receive from the Government a great deal more than you would obtain if you waited the coming of the large supplying companies. If this scheme fails, I am "down and out," and if it fails I want to be "down and out." This scheme has been my ambition since childhood. My political faith is vain if it works unsuccessfully. Barristers will not run the scheme, but the pick of the men now running bakeries and employed in them. It is certain that a large number of workmen in the bread trade will have to get out of it in any case during the next five years. Little trouble is anticipated in providing for the displaced carters; a few of the 600 and 700 tradesmen employed in the metropolitan area would not be required with the concentration of the trade, and probably the majority would not be needed when machinery was installed. Those who have to get out will do so under better conditions than have been extended by private enterprise in the past. The cost of buying all the businesses in the metropolitan area, and the bakeries required, would be under £500,000. Once the metropolitan area is secured, we could, out of the profits, take the larger cities and towns outside Sydney.

RECRUITING.

ANOTHER GOOD WEEK.

Last week's recruiting was eminently satisfactory. Although not a record, the total number of enrolments, 1060, demonstrates that the recruiting spirit is still strong in this State.

The State Commandant, Colonel Wallack, C.B., motored out to Liverpool camp on Saturday, and inspected the 12th Light Horse. He also paid a visit to the concentration camp, where, he stated yesterday, he found everything in capital order. While at Liverpool camp he was presented by a committee of ladies with a draft for £450, with which to purchase three travelling kitchens.

The Clovelly Life Saving Club on Saturday made a presentation of pocket knives and fountain pens to Lieutenant Brunton, Driver W. Bates, and Private G. Bowman, who have been accepted for active service. Alderman Spring made the presentations, and Mr. G. Williams, secretary of the Royal Life Saving Society, presented Driver W. Bates with a framed certificate of merit for his many brave acts in rescue work.

DEATH AT SEA.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The Defence Department announces the death of Private Harold Ernest Amos, D. Company, Second Battalion, which occurred on the steamer Kyarra on the way from Egypt, on March 1. His mother is Mrs. S. Amos, of 75 Darley-road, Manly, N.S.W.

COAL TRADE.

MASS MEETING TO-DAY.

OWNERS' PROTEST.

A mass meeting of the miners employed on the South Coast coal field is to be held at Wollongong to-day at 12 o'clock, when the arrest of a number of wheelers and surface hands for non-payment of fines, as well as other questions, will be discussed.

The action of the association in laying the mines idle for a whole day is warmly resented by the proprietors. A telegram was received by Mr. W. A. Firth (secretary of the Southern Coal Owners' Association) on Saturday from the miners' general secretary (Mr. A. C. Willis), conveying the information that the aggregate meeting had been decided upon. In reply, Mr. Firth telegraphed as follows:—"Your telegram received. Most strongly protest against illegal action in throwing all southern collieries idle Monday next for purpose of holding aggregate meeting. Will hold you, your executive, and delegate board, and members of your association, personally liable for consequences."

Subsequently, Mr. Firth said to a "Herald" reporter that he was at a loss to comprehend why such a meeting should be considered necessary. A number of employees had recently been fined for illegally ceasing work, and certain arrests had taken place, according to law, because of the non-payment of these fines. "Why could not the aggregate meeting have been held on Saturday, instead of laying the whole of the southern mines idle, including collieries which have large contracts with the New South Wales railways? If the miners desired to ventilate grievances surely they could have done so without causing a disorganisation of the whole trade. The effects of the war are already bad enough in all conscience. Why then try to aggravate the position? At the present crisis it is the duty of all parties to be reasonable."

CRITICAL SITUATION.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

A meeting of the delegates of the Illawarra Miners' Association was held on Friday and yesterday, at which delegates were present from 13 lodges, as well as the executive officers, to discuss the critical situation caused by the imprisonment of men from Coalcliff colliery and failure to draw the cavil at Corrimal mine.

The speakers were strong in their condemnation of the stand taken by the manager of Corrimal mine, as it was pointed out by the executive officers that they had failed to get an interview with the manager with a view of drawing the cavil.

To deal with the position it was decided to hold an aggregate meeting at the Star Theatre, Wollongong, to-morrow.

THE RECHABITES.

A MILLION MEMBERS.

WOLLONGONG, Saturday.

The annual conference of representatives of the New South Wales Independent Order of Rechabites was commenced at the Town Hall this morning. The Chief Ruler, Bro. Adams, commented on the great impetus the temperance movement would receive as a result of the present war, as the use of alcohol was being denounced by experts. The loyalty of members of the order had been exhibited in a practical way, as over 200 had offered their services to the Empire, and suitable arrangements had been made for the payment of their contributions during their absence. It was pointed out that, as the number of volunteers from the ranks of the members was increasing daily, it would be necessary to consider the advisability of making provision for the meeting of further claims, as well as the helping of a large number of members thrown out of employment consequent upon the war and the drought. The latest figures in connection with the order showed that the world's membership stood at one million, with funds to the amount of 2½ millions sterling. The order in New South Wales had survived the effects of the war and drought, and the membership showed an increase of 72, whilst the juvenile section had increased by 346. The total effective membership stood at 12,374.

Bros. W. T. Dash, P.D.C.R., and H. Bartripp were appointed representatives to the high moveable conference, which meets in Bradford, England, in August next, and district officers were empowered to appoint two other representatives. The conference endorsed a scheme for organised temperance work amongst young people in conjunction with the New South Wales Alliance, on the council of which the order is represented. The election of officers resulted:—District Chief Ruler, Bro. W. H. O'Donnell (Balmain); deputy ruler, Bro. G. W. Crisp; superintendent juvenile tents, Bro. F. Champman (Granville); treasurer, Bro. T. Rook (Redfern); district levite, Bro. P. J. Sheppard (Hamilton); district council, Bros. C. W. S. Reed (Kogarah), T. R. Jones (Wallsend), W. J. Hughes (Broken Hill), auditors, Bros. G. S. Travers and R. C. Walmsley; juvenile committee, Bros. Collins, Donohoe, Rowe, Amistead, and Jelfs.

Lieutenant Champling, who was present, and who has volunteered, was wished God-speed and a safe return.

MOTOR FATALITY.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A shocking motor fatality occurred at Windsor last night, when Mr. J. C. Turton, who was connected with the Massey-Harris Co., was knocked down and killed by his own motor car. Mrs. Turton was sitting in the car, while her husband went to the front to "crank up." No difficulty was experienced in starting the engine, but no sooner was this accomplished than the car moved forward, knocked him down, and passed over his body before it could be stopped by Mrs. Turton. Death was instantaneous. Mrs. Turton and his wife had spent the afternoon at the Melbourne Bowling Club's green at Windsor, and left the car in the street unattended. It is believed that some children while playing with the car put it in gear, and thus caused the accident. Mr. Turton was 61 years of age.

HEAT WAVE.

Saturday was another hot day. Dry north-easterly winds were again in evidence, and combined to produce oppressive and trying conditions. The maximum temperature was 93.1 deg. This is the fourth reading so far in this month of over 90 deg. Never has this occurred before in any previous March (the largest number of readings over 90 deg. was three up to now. The percentage of humidity was never less than 21 per cent.

The wind during the afternoon veered to the ENE, and brought additional moisture to the atmosphere. This, of course, did not improve matters. The humidity readings jumped from 21 per cent. at 2.15 p.m. to 33 per cent. half-an-hour later, and at 3 p.m. stood at 41 per cent. However, at the same time the temperature fell a few degrees. At 9 p.m. the temperature stood at 78 deg., and the humidity had risen to 69 per cent.

A squally south-easterly change worked up at 1 a.m. on Sunday, and materially improved the weather conditions. Notwithstanding this, yesterday was sultry and hot, and, but for the prevalence of cool north-easters, the day would have been very similar to the previous one.

On Saturday Bourke recorded 107 deg., Condobolin 104, and Forbes and Walgett each 100 deg.

EXPORT OF FODDER.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Reports have been circulated in the city that the New South Wales Necessary Commodities' Board is considering whether it will prohibit the export of fodder from that State to Victoria and South Australia. Practically the whole of the lucerne crop of Victoria is exhausted; while the chaff supplies are nearing completion. Large quantities were being purchased daily in New South Wales for the starving stock, and the prohibition would be a severe blow to those engaged in this operation.

BENALLA'S IMMIGRANTS.

The Benalla, which arrived from London on Saturday, brought a number of immigrants. There were 11 nominated families, nine farm workers, a half a dozen boys brought out by the trustees of the Dreadnought Fund, and a solitary domestic.

RIFLE RESERVE.

NORTH SYDNEY CLUB.

A meeting of the North Sydney Rifle Club will be held in the School of Arts, North Sydney, this evening, with a view to urging citizens to join the club.

Mr. Leverton, the secretary of the club, states that the club has been in existence for more than 20 years, and has a membership of about 115. It would be to the advantage of citizens to join this club, instead of going to the trouble of forming a new reserve.

NEWTOWN-ERSKINEVILLE.

An office and hall suitable for drills and miniature rifle practice has been placed at the disposal of the Newtown-Erskineville Reserve by the Newtown Amusements, Ltd., situated at Hatte's Arcade, King-street, Newtown, and this will in future be the headquarters. This evening at 7.45 the parade will start from Newtown railway bridge, and all future marches will start from that centre.

DAVID JONES' CLUB.

A meeting of the above club was held last week. Mr. C. L. Jones presided. Mr. Eric D. Lloyd Jones was unanimously elected captain of the club. The following were also elected as members of the committee:—Messrs. P. C. McConnachie, secretary; L. Weetch, treasurer; E. A. Moir, B. C. Morris, Herbert Johnson, A. H. Richards. The club has a membership of 310, and the members drill in squads of 60 each morning in the Government House grounds, between the hours of 9 and 10.30. Arrangements are being made for Saturday afternoon parades.

CALLAN PARK HOSPITAL RESERVE.

A meeting of the Callan Park Hospital Rifle Club was held last week, when the rules and bylaws were passed for the approval of the supervisor of rifle clubs. Mr. R. Kirkpatrick was appointed captain.

GREEK OFFERS TO HELP.

Mr. J. Dunningham, hon. secretary of the Randwick Rugby Union District Club, is in receipt of the following letter from Mr. J. Comino, of Sussex-street, a well-known resident of Randwick:—

"Enclosed herewith please find cheque value £5 5s, of which please credit £4 4s to the rifle club, and £1 1s to the football club. Permit me to express to you my heartiest congratulations on the occasion of the formation of your drill and rifle club, and wish you every success. There is no doubt that in due course of time these clubs will tend to awaken in the people of this great and magnificent continent the latent self-consciousness that the British race, Empire, freedom, and civilisation are prizes too precious to be left undefended, and that they are worth any effort that their possession may demand. When we realise that mighty Empires risk their very existence to wrest these invaluable treasures from us, then it is time that every citizen of this country should say: 'If it is worth the enemy's time to try and take them it is worth more than my time to try and keep them.' I will in due course join your club, and will persuade every countryman of mine in New South Wales to do the same."

DRUMMOYNE-FIVE DOCK.

At a meeting of members held at the Five Dock School of Arts on Thursday, Mr. H. J. Rayment was elected provisional captain. Application was ordered to be made for a supply of rifles for musketry instruction, and for the establishment and equipment of a miniature rifle range. Mr. C. Whittall has placed two sites at the disposal of the committee. Over 80 members attend the drills.

Y.M.C.A.

The first parade of the newly-formed rifle club was held in the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium on Thursday evening. Arrangements were made for three weekly drills. The Y.M.C.A. Club is working in conjunction with the Rugby Union's scheme.

AT MANLY.

At the meeting in the Victoria Hall, Manly, last week in connection with the rifle reserve movement, about 14 sporting clubs were represented. The Mayor of Manly (Alderman A. T. Keirle) presided, and addresses were delivered by the chairman, Colonel Wallack, Major Buchanan, and ex-Senator Oakes. Representatives of the sporting clubs also addressed the gathering.

Colonel Wallack said that the rifle reserve movement was making very satisfactory progress.

It was decided to form a company from the sporting bodies of Manly.

MARRICKVILLE AND DISTRICT.

At a meeting of the Marrickville and District Rifle Club, the following provisional officers were elected:—President, Ald. J. T. Ness; vice-presidents, Messrs. Cruise and S. T. Tanner; treasurer, Mr. A. E. Allman; secretary, Mr. F. S. Tanner.

WOLLONGONG.

WOLLONGONG, Sunday.

On Friday the first drill in connection with the new rifle club was held, when there was an attendance of nearly 100. At Port Kembla 60 attended the first drill.

MUDGEE.

MUDGEE, Sunday.

At a largely attended meeting in the Town Hall on Thursday evening a rifle reserve club was formed, and 48 names were handed in, including a number of instructors. It was suggested that a mounted corps also be formed.

BATHURST, Saturday.

A remarkable scene was witnessed in the School of Arts Hall last night, when over a hundred members of a packed audience crowded to the platform in response to an appeal by Bishop Long for support for the rifle club reserve movement. Dr. Long urged that any little accident might bring other Powers into this war, and "it is not to be taken for granted that they will come in on the right side. They may come in on the wrong side. It may be necessary for our country to assemble her reserves of manhood, and these reserves ought now to be doing their best to fit themselves for drill and musketry, so that if the emergency arises they will be ready to go. The meeting also decided upon a scheme for systematic contributions to the Belgian funds."

BUSH FIRES.

DAMAGE IN THE COUNTRY.

MOLONG, Saturday.

A considerable area of country and many miles of fencing have been destroyed by bush fires near Gumble, where the fire has been burning fiercely for three days. The outbreak, which originated in a pine scrub, between Killenbutta and Delaney's Dyke, travelled at a rapid pace towards Norah Creek.

Several narrow escapes are reported. The driver of the Gumble to Molong mail coach had a risky experience running the gauntlet of falling trees and picking a track through smouldering logs on the road.

As a result of the fire, Molong has been enveloped in clouds of smoke.

MUSWELLBROOK, Sunday.

Bush fires have been raging in various parts of the district, and owing to the large quantity of long dry grass on most properties it is feared that great destruction will be caused unless the fires are quickly got under control. The atmosphere is full of smoke, so dense that all the surrounding hills are obscured.

SUNNY CORNER, Sunday.

Bush fires have been raging around here for several days past, and thousands of acres of grass have been destroyed. Many settlers have lost fences, sheds etc., and in some cases the homesteads have been burnt out. The loss is enormous, as, owing to the drought, grass was getting scarce, and winter grass will not do any good now, as the season is too far advanced.

WINGHAM, Sunday.

Bush fires have been raging in various parts of the Manning district this week. Last night Mr. J. Cox, of Wherrol Flat, had his farmhouse burnt, together with most of the furniture. The house is said to have been insured.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

PERTH, Saturday.

In the Criminal Court George Snellgrove was charged with the wilful murder of Sarah Bourke, at Perth, on February 8. The case for the Crown was that on the date in question accused entered a room in a coffee palace, where deceased and another woman were resting, and with an axe struck her blows on the head, from which she died the same night. Accused, giving evidence on his own behalf, said for some time he had lived with deceased as man and wife. On the night of the murder he called to see her at the coffee palace. She said she had done with him, and was going away with another man. On hearing this he lost his temper, and hit her with an axe.

A verdict of murder was returned, with a recommendation to mercy. Sentence of death was recorded, but the Judge undertook to forward to the Executive the jury's recommendation.

Y.M.C.A. FIELD SERVICE.

The general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. reports that additional amounts have been received from mothers of troopers as special contributions to the "Mothers' Fund." In view of the increased expenditure, which will be caused by fitting out various troopships with writing paper and material for recreation on board, additional contributions would be very welcome at this time, so that the association might be able to know exactly what it can spend on this important part of the field service work. A request has been received from the soldiers in the Liverpool camp to send at least one special troopship secretary with the Third Expeditionary Force, but this depends absolutely on the funds available. If the Field Service Fund can be brought to £1500 before the end of March it will be possible to appoint this additional secretary. Mr. Owens, writing from Egypt, says that he would like to take a tent with him when the troops leave Egypt for the front. An opportunity is thus provided for some private donor in New South Wales to provide this tent, which would cost at least £100. Full particulars could be had on application to the general secretary, Y.M.C.A., 327 Pitt-street, Sydney.

The following contributions are gratefully acknowledged:—Amount previously acknowledged, £1030/8/11; officers and Staff Hospital for Insane, Callan Park, £10/10/; Mrs. E. Johnstone, £2/2; Miss F. M. It was also announced that arrangements were in progress for a grand patriotic concert, to be held at the Town Hall on April 14.

RAILWAY GANGER'S DEATH.

TAMWORTH, Sunday.

The inquest concerning the death of James Mason, 59, railway ganger, who met his death on Tuesday afternoon last by being overtaken by a light engine while riding a tricycle between Tintinhull and Nemingha, was commenced last week. Evidence was given by Charles Edward Stevens to the effect that he was the driver of the engine which collided with the tricycle. The first thing he knew of the accident was when the fireman called out stop. He pulled up within six engine lengths. After striking deceased the engine must have travelled about two and a half lengths. Ernest Vincent Farrar gave evidence to the effect that he was fireman on the engine. Coming round the curve he kept a sharp lookout. He first saw deceased on the tricycle 30 or 40 yards ahead. The further hearing was adjourned till Thursday next.

KILLED ON THE RAILWAY.

CLIFTON, Saturday.

PRAYERS FOR PEACE.

Archbishop Kelly has issued a pastoral to the clergy and laity of the Archdiocese of Sydney, prescribing the services for peace to be held next Sunday.

"The hostilities which already have raged for several months (Dr. Kelly says) between combinations of the great military Powers of the world are characterised continuously by such inhumanities and ruthless devastations as never till now were heard of or imagined. Besides, of these international woes we cannot, humanly speaking, see the end. The Sovereign Pontiff, therefore, as Father and Pastor of the Christian World, gives forth an edict to the clergy and to their faithful flocks, enjoining public prayer and personal sanctification. On our part, beloved brethren, we now officially communicate the injunction of His Holiness, in the first place. Then we avail of the occasion to add to and modify impressively our former directions. Thirdly, we exhort each of you to concur as an earnest supplicant in seeking to obtain the light of true wisdom for all belligerent nations, so that they may 'seek first the Kingdom of God and His Justice.'" Then follows the papal decree.

PRICE OF BREAD.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Sunday.

Mr. Massey, in the course of an interview, said if there are any further increases in the price of bread the Government will establish bakeries in the four principal centres, with the object of regulating the prices.

TRAM AND 'BUS.

BURST INTO FLAMES.

FATAL COLLISION.

ADELAIDE, Sunday.

On Saturday afternoon an extraordinary accident occurred in Adelaide. A tramcar and a motor 'bus collided, and both were burnt out. It happened in Hanson-street, just south of Hurtle-square, about 4 o'clock.

The tram car was proceeding towards Mitcham, and the 'bus was carrying passengers for the Fullarton and Mitcham districts. The last-named vehicle turned round the south-west corner of the square into Hanson-street, and from the accounts given by eye-witnesses was making at a slow pace towards the left side of the road. The tramcar came through the square, and approached the 'bus from the rear. It is stated that the tramcar struck the 'bus, and carried it for some yards, until a tramway standard was encountered.

The force of the impact caused the petrol tank of the 'bus to burst. The oil flew in all directions, ignited presumably by coming into contact with the electric lighting apparatus on the 'bus or with a broken tramway cable which is believed to have fallen across it. Instantly a great flame arose in the chassis of the 'bus. There were about 12 passengers on the 'bus, and the tramcar contained about 20 people.

A panic ensued from both vehicles. Men, women, and children jumped to the roadway. Not only was the 'bus by this time burning fiercely inside, but, it being locked with the tramcar, the fire had spread to the tram.

The Metropolitan Fire Brigade turned out promptly. So fierce were the flames, however, that before they could be extinguished the tram, which had a big bogie cabin, was completely burnt out in the interior. The 'bus was also destroyed so far as the body was concerned: while the engine was seriously damaged.

Seated close to the driver of the motor 'bus was a six-year-old boy named Walter Simons. He was badly burned all over the body. He was taken to the Adelaide Hospital, where he died to-day.

PORT KEMBLA RAILWAY.

The Minister for Public Works, Mr. Griffith, yesterday stated that an important change in the railway arrangements at Port Kembla has been approved by him.

The original proposal to connect Port Kembla with the railway was from Wollongong, along the South Coast railway, to Unanderra, and thence from Unanderra by the Southern Coal Company's line to Port Kembla, which would have to be resumed for the purpose. This route forms two sides of a triangle.

The new proposal, which has received Mr. Griffith's approval, and is being permanently surveyed, is estimated to cost £17,312, which represents the diagonal line of the triangle. Branching direct from Wollongong and skirting the western side of Tom Thumb's Lagoon, and running almost direct to Port Kembla, it thereby saves 1½ mile of the heavy traffic that will eventually be carried over the proposed railway. Under the original proposal it would have been necessary to resume the Southern Coal Company's line, and spend £10,000 in strengthening and relaying it, so that the new scheme will cost little, if anything, more than the original.

Another advantage will result from the fact that the connection will be worked direct from Wollongong station, and afford an easier route from Port Kembla. The proposed tramway connecting Wollongong with the port will then be rendered unnecessary.

STEEL RAILS.

CONTRACT FOR NEWCASTLE.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The Victorian Railway Commissioners have accepted the tender of Messrs. Noyes Bros., of Melbourne, as agents for the Broken Hill Property, Ltd., steel works, Newcastle, for the manufacture, supply, and delivery of about 3300 tons of 100lb steel rails, at the rate of £9 2s 6d a ton, and 232 tons of steel fishplates at the rate of £11 6s a ton. The rails and fishplates will be manufactured at the works of the company, which have recently been established at Newcastle.

SHORTAGE OF FLOUR.

PERTH, Sunday.

As the Grain and Foodstuffs Board has seized all wheat in the possession of millers, the latter will be compelled to cease milling unless they can arrange importations. Before doing this, however, the millers state they should be apprised as to what profits on the manufactured article the Control of Trade Commission is prepared to allow them as a return for the money they might venture. Country storekeepers report that stocks of flour are running out, and that orders to millers for more supplies are met with the response that they cannot fill them as they have only enough on hand to fill contracts.

DEATH OF MR. RICHARD BAKER.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The death is announced of Mr. Richard Baker, formerly a member of the Victorian Legislative Assembly, at the age of 84 years. Mr. Baker was Minister for Education and Minister for Customs in the Patterson Ministry.

BIG FIRE.

TWELVE SHOPS DESTROYED

DAMAGE, £10,000.

PARKES, Sunday.

The most disastrous fire in the history of Parkes occurred at an early hour this morning.

At 4.30 a fire broke out at J. Howell's fruit and tobacco shop and refreshment rooms, at the corner of Clarinda and Dalton streets, in the heart of the town, and 12 shops and offices were gutted.

The premises destroyed were S. E. Close's office; Wood, Connellan, and Pearce's solicitors' office; Jas. McGirr's chemist shop; H. J. Brown's booksellers and stationery and news agency shop; A. Mellick's general drapery store; Howell's fruit shop; E. Baxter's hairdressing saloon; a vacant shop; E. J. Cook's architect's office; Coles and Co.'s auctioneer's office; F. B. Commins' solicitor office; and E. Burns' two billiard saloons.

All of the buildings excepting Howell's were brick, and quite new, some having only just been completed. Three were two-storied, owned by Mr. S. E. Close; and eight were owned by Mr. M'Girr, M.L.A. for Yass. The fire brigade did splendid work in saving from destruction the whole of one side of the main street between Dalton and Court streets. Had the town water supply pressure been normal the brigade could have confined the fire to Howell's premises.

The total loss is roughly estimated at £10,000. The amount of insurance is not yet known, but many tenants of the destroyed shops will lose heavily. The origin of the fire is unknown.

An unoccupied weatherboard cottage in Molong-road was also destroyed by fire.

OUTBREAK AT BROKEN HILL.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

A fire on Saturday destroyed the offices of the Barrier Finance Company, Oxide-street. The premises were gutted, the safe only being saved. The premises of J. Wise, tobacconist, and J. Tonkin, machinery agent, on either side, were slightly damaged. The Finance Company's offices were part of a block insured in the Adelaide Company. The contents were insured in the Adelaide Fire Office for £100. The other premises were also insured.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS UNVEILED.

Five windows in memory of deceased members of the congregation were unveiled at St. Mark's Church, Darling Point, yesterday. The Archbishop of Sydney, Dr. Wright, assisted by the rector, the Rev. E. Howard Lea, conducted the service, which was largely attended. During the service windows were unveiled in memory of T. Hawkins Smith (by Mr. E. Lamb, K.C.), Anna Maria Street (by Mr. Justice Street), Henrietta Octavia Lamb (by Mr. Frank D. V. Lamb), Sara M. Plunkett, John Hubert Plunkett, and Robert H. B. Acheson (by the Rev. E. Howard Lea), and Canon Willoughby Flower, late rector of the parish (by Mr. Flower). The windows were beautifully executed in stained glass and represented St. Aidan, St. Augustine, St. Paul, St. Peter, and Moses.

Dr. Wright took for the subject of his discourse the Divine sufferer, the sermon being one of the Lenten course. He prefaced his remarks by saying that it had been decided during Lent to deliver a course of sermons on christian faith, and that morning they had unveiled windows in memory of those to whom the facts of christian faith were very dear.

NOTES ON THE RACING.

The Flying Squadron's racing was good all round on Saturday, and the club's patrons on the steamers Kulgoa and Kuree had every reason to be well satisfied with the afternoon's sport.

The first heat saw Evelyn hold the lead, until after passing Bradley's, when the weight of the breeze proved too much for her sails, and she fell back. Mona made great weather of it from the start, as also did Sunny South, and the work over the first mile eventually saw them fighting out the question of supremacy. Mona managed to reach the Taylor Bay mark first, but only 25s ahead of Sunny South, which was followed by Australian, 1m 14s later, then by Advance, Arline, Evelyn, Golding, and Blanche.

Sunny South's leading qualities enabled her to overhaul Mona racing to Shark Island. The latter, however, jibed just in front of her rival at the buoy, and luffed up under the island to prevent Sunny South from getting the weather position. Allen, however, was not to be beaten in this way, and had almost succeeded in covering Mona, when the balloon sheet carried away and spoilt what looked a sure chance of winning. Mona being left to race home unmolested.

Australian, Advance, and Arline retained their respective positions at Taylor Bay to the finish, the lastnamed doing well to qualify for the final, having regard to the fact that she was over-canvassed.

Nimrod did not start in the first heat, while Blanche, the limit boat, missed her flag. H. C. Press was in trouble from the outset, and retired in Taylor Bay, whilst Kismet struck the worst of bad luck by carrying away her peak halyards before reaching Bradley's, this mishap putting her out of the race. Evelyn also struck trouble, the jib carrying away on the lead to Shark Island, and causing her retirement.

Snugly rigged for the breeze, Moyana sailed a great boat in the second heat. She was in front before reaching the Taylor Bay mark, and afterwards sailed home an easy winner.

Sydney did the best of the others in the second heat, working to the Taylor Bay mark, where Mississippi was next, followed by Swastika, Acme, Mavis, Pastime, Baronia, Quibree, and Tom Tait. Eagle capsized here. Mavis's speed off the wind stuck to her over the remaining two sides of the triangle, and she raced into second place before reaching the finish. Sydney managed to retain third position, but Mississippi was only 3s behind her crossing the line, Swastika being 11s further astern.

Moyana was a hot favourite for the final, and she pleased her supporters by going to the front on the beat to Taylor Bay. Australian also sailed a great boat over this part of the course, but after losing the wind to some extent close in shore she was 34s behind Moyana, easing away at the Taylor Bay mark, the order of the others being Sydney, Sunny South, Mavis, Mona, Arline, and Swastika. Advance had carried away her bumpkin and mast, while Mississippi had retired.

The leader now appeared to have Australian safe, but, remembering her bursts of speed off the wind in the heat, Mavis was given a chance of winning. She made the most of her opportunity, and after assuming third place on the lead to Shark Island, soon raced past Australian on the home turn. Every hard puff brought her closer and closer to Moyana, until, amidst a good deal of excitement, the finishing line saw her beaten by three-quarters of a length. Australian retained third, Sydney and Sunny South being fourth and fifth respectively. Arline was sixth.

EARL'S SISTER.

SENT TO PRISON FOR FRAUD.

REMARKABLE EVIDENCE.

LONDON, March 13.

Lady Ida Sitwell was sentenced to three months' imprisonment, and Julian Field to 18 months, while Oliver Herbert was acquitted, at the Old Bailey on a charge of conspiracy to defraud Miss Dobbs of £6000.

Lady Sitwell was seven hours under cross-examination. She said her husband had several times previously paid her debts. She admitted asking her son, an officer in a crack regiment, to induce his fellow officers to back her bills. She promised to use family influence to get men elected to the Marlborough Club, and to get women, including Miss Dobbs, into society. Lady Sitwell also borrowed £140 from her butler and some of the other servants.

Lady Ida Sitwell is sister of the Earl of Londesborough, and wife of Sir George Sitwell, Bart.

The appeal of Sir E. Ward (late Secretary to the War Office) against the verdict in the libel action brought by Major Adam has been allowed.

The action was heard in February last year. The alleged libel was contained in a letter written by the defendant in 1910 on behalf of the Army Council to General Scobel, and communicated to the press, upholding General Scobel's confidential reports, on which five officers of the Fifth Lancers, including the plaintiff, were removed. The jury found that Sir E. Ward published the document in discharge of a public duty, but that the contents of the document were not proper information for the public to know. Damages amounting to £2000 were awarded.

PRICE OF SUGAR.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A request was made some time ago that the Price of Goods Board should allow an increase in the price of sugar from £21 2s 6d per ton to £23. The board has decided not to allow the increase. If the sugar producers require a higher price for their sugar, it is thought by the board that arrangements could best be made by a body like the Colonial Sugar Refining Company.

FINANCIAL.

CALEDONIAN COLLIERIES, LTD.

The second annual report of the above company shows a net profit of £101,831, which, with £12,192 brought forward, made £114,023 available. Out of this an interim dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. was paid in August last, absorbing £34,100, leaving £79,923. Out of this the directors recommend a further dividend for the last half-year at the rate of 8 per cent. on the preference shares and 12 per cent. per annum on the ordinary shares, making an average on the latter of 10 per cent. for the year, absorbing £46,100, leaving £33,822 to be carried forward. The paid up capital of this company is £852,507, and there is a reserve account of £33,097, while debts due by the company aggregated £86,076. Among the assets are colliery and other properties, £940,435; stores, £34,505; stocks of coal, £6736; bills receivable, £9340; debts due to the company, £29,766.

INCOME TAX PROBLEMS.

ARE POLICYHOLDERS TAXABLE?

"Interested" writes:—

Sir,—From correspondence in your columns it appears that in making their income tax returns the A.M.P. have deducted from their cash interest receipts the reversionary bonus credited to policyholders. This seems illogical, but I am afraid it does not follow that it is illegal. Perhaps the Act justifies the office in this course; but that is no reason why the Commissioner should attempt to charge a policyholder on more than the cash credited to him in the A.M.P.'s books. It would be just as sensible to attempt to charge a tax on the face value of the policy. If I spend £1000 in buying a policy for £1000 I do not immediately make £990 taxable profit.

On another point, though I maintain that Mr. Wade misunderstands the position altogether, mutual assurance offices do trade and make profits. They lend money at the best rates they can command, they divide whatever amount the holder of a lapsed policy leaves behind him, they make profit from the sale of securities.

Suppose a mutual office on one of its properties discovered a literal gold mine, ought they to escape taxation on the profits?

In the more likely event of an office in the course of its business acquiring possession of a station property, would Mr. Wade say that it should not be taxed on the profits?

If the answer to both questions is "Yes," it is rather hard on us individuals not so protected; for if I go into the money market and invest on my personal account I must compete with the A.M.P. If I am taxed on my income, why should the business of my larger rival be sacred?

The canvassers of life insurance offices sometimes endeavour to throw a cloak of benevolence round the business, but, as a matter of fact, life insurance has no flavour of philanthropy. If a life insurance quite up to the medical standard endeavours to get a life office will have none of him, and if a policyholder is unable through misfortune to keep up his payments the company makes a profit from his failure. Life insurance is no doubt an important commodity, the vendors of which should be encouraged, but, if so, why, then, the vendors of the absolute necessities of life, bread, for instance, are more entitled to consideration still, and having got so far, where are we going to stop?

ANOTHER VIEW.

Mr. Frederick Morse Sky (Messrs. Vigars and Sky) is of the opinion that the Commissioners for Taxation are correct, for the following reasons:—

Firstly. The society need not have acted under a section in a way which shunted the matter of paying on to a small minority for the benefit of the great majority. The society had the option of two or more courses, and chose the one which has now led to all this trouble.

Secondly. I hold that the society is wrong in contending that its "bonuses" come within the scope of the term "dividend" or "bonus," as contained in this section. The Act refers only to bonuses granted out of taxable profits; and the provision simply means that this actual taxable profit may be assessed in globo in the hands of the company primarily liable to taxation or piecemeal in the hands of its individual members. The A.M.P. "bonuses" which were included in the list supplied by the society to the department are being, in the opinion of the former, legitimate deductions from income which is undoubtedly taxable, are not strictly bonuses, but are admittedly only "reversionary" bonuses. These amounts are at present partly non-existent and fictitious, being (generally) available only after the unknown future date of the death of the respective policy-holders. Such a "bonus" includes future accretions of interest. It also partly represents the return of premiums paid somewhat in excess of the amount subsequently ascertained as being necessary, and includes, in addition, a proportion of income from non-taxable sources. Certainly all these are reasons why such bonuses are not subject to income tax, but my present contention is that these facts constitute an incontrovertible argument in support of the Commissioner's opinion that bonuses so composed cannot be claimed in toto (as the society has done) as deductions from their comparatively very small section of the society's income which is taxable, viz., that derived from interest on mortgage of lands in New South Wales, which is the only proviso the Act makes when exempting from taxation the main income of such societies as the A.M.P. But when the society insisted upon making these deductions the department thereby became legally entitled to assess the amounts of these deductions as taxable in the hands of the individuals concerned. The position plainly is that the department is not taxing bonuses, but is taxing deductions made by the society, the intrinsic nature of which deductions does not concern the department, as the Act clearly shows. Even the cash value of an A.M.P. bonus cannot be rightly deducted in the society's own return, but only that portion of such cash value which is derived from the society's one source of taxable income for that particular year.

Lastly. The society has evidently misunderstood the word "credited" used in section 17. "Credited" means that the sum in question is actually due, though for any of many reasons it might not be paid out. Suppose an employee of a business purchases therefrom goods on credit up to £500, and his annual salary of the same amount is retained by the firm in settlement. That is a case of income being credited, and the salary is taxable though not actually received in cash. The company might declare a dividend amounting to £1000 for one shareholder, but retains the amount to meet further calls made. Such dividend, though only credited, is taxable. How different is the case of the A.M.P. bonuses. Yet, to avoid the society as a whole, including all members all over the world, having to bear income tax upon its New South Wales mortgage interest, the society's management complacently claims deductions of sufficient of these bloated amounts of future "bonuses" to wipe out its taxable income as shown in its own return, then faces a meeting representative of the few who are paying for the many, and declares that the society can do nothing to help. What an absurd "pot luck" sort of an arrangement for such a magnificent institution.

What is the approximate effect of this wretched mistake? On its taxable profits for 1912 the society paid, and charged against all its members as a whole, £[illegible] for income tax in Victoria, £[illegible] in New Zealand, £[illegible] in Queensland, £[illegible] in South Australia, £[illegible] in Western Australia, and £[illegible] in Tasmania, but not one penny in New South Wales. This State contributed about [illegible] per cent. of the company's total business, and, with very limited data at my disposal, I calculate that if the tax were here would be at least £[illegible] for the year. That is the position is that, in choosing to act as it did, the society has created a most inequitable state of affairs, which it does not seem at all desirous of remedying, notwithstanding the detrimental effect upon the institution. It is the society's income, and not the income of the comparatively few big policy-holders in this State, and it is worse than farcical to talk of legal action on a point that is not at issue. Even supposing any individual policy-holder won a case against the commissioner, the matter would not end there, for the department would then be entitled to disallow the whole of all similar deductions made in the company's return, and would follow the matter up by compelling the society to lodge an amended return, which would show a big tax payable.

Perhaps another meeting, without the directors there to suggest that further discussion is useless or undesirable, would probably achieve the desire of the members, most of whom were quite evidently not perfectly in sympathy with the decision arrived at.

PRICE OF BREAD.

BAKERS' PROFITS.

ARE THEY UNDULY HIGH.

Mr. Geo. Holmes writes:—

Sir,—In Melbourne, with flour at £18 10s per ton of 2000lb, the cost is 1.4d per 2lb, and the selling price of bread 5d per loaf, which leaves the baker 3.6d for profit and working expenses.

In Sydney the cost of flour at £11 17s 6d per ton of 2000lb is 2.85d per 2lb, and the 2lb loaf sells at 4d, which leaves the baker 1.15d for profit and working expenses.

It is therefore obvious that the Sydney baker makes 2d per 2lb (equal to £2 8s 6d per ton of flour) more profit than the Melbourne baker. In fact, with the 2lb loaf at 3½d, the former still would make 3/8 of a penny per loaf more profit than the latter.

I believe a statement has been made by the Government that each ½d per loaf saved means £360,000 per annum saved to the population of New South Wales. If so, it would be interesting to know why the Government permits the bakers to exploit the public to the extent of £360,000 per annum, and why they do not immediately fix the price of bread at not more than 3½d per loaf.

COMMERCIAL.

THE SPELTER MARKET.

The chief interest in the annual report of Rudolf Wolffkreuger and Co., of London, on the spelter market for 1914 centres in the effect of the war, on the course of prices, on production, and consumption. At the end of July the price was £21/15/ per ton. "In August," the report states, "with heavy orders given out for war material, the scarcity of spelter in the country was acutely felt, and until supplies were forthcoming from America in relief of the situation, almost panicky conditions prevailed; the price in about three weeks advancing to over £40. The reason for this unheard of rise was the fact that brass and ammunition makers, mostly in the Midlands, were, at the outbreak of war, caught entirely short of stock in spelter; for a number of years in the Midlands, consumers, well knowing that all unsold spelter is consigned to their district, have been in the habit of running their supplies very close, and of picking and choosing when purchasing, as they always have had everything ready at their doors. They could, moreover, not be so much blamed for running their supplies down to a vanishing point, when one recollects that it was well known that the German syndicate held surplus stocks of something over 90,000 tons at the outbreak of war; this supply was, of course, suddenly cut off, whilst the demand for brass strip was trebled or quadrupled. This proved, however, to be the highest point of the year, and the rise was much overdone. America continued to sell, and with odd parcels arriving from neutral countries and the Colonies, the price rapidly gave way, and £23 was reached in early September, whilst even lower prices were accepted for forward delivery. At this juncture some heavy orders were placed by Russia, and a sharp rally took place to £28/10/ for prompt delivery, but on this particular demand being satisfied, the decline again set in, and by the middle of October the price was back to £23. On November 6 the London Metal Exchange reopened, and this month witnessed a steady recovery in all metals, and the price of spelter rose to £26, with the Americans holding off the market and consistently advancing their prices. Consumption was steadily maintained, due almost entirely to the busy conditions ruling in the brass trade, and all metal arriving went straight through to consumers' works."

At the close of the year the price was £27/10/ per ton. Even those in closest touch with the market cannot gauge conditions a few weeks ahead. Thus the report concludes: "In the present situation (December 31) we think that £27 might be considered a fair price for spelter, and we look for the market to fluctuate either side of that figure."

The market commenced to advance in the second week in the new year. At the end of January spelter was quoted at £34/10/ per ton, at the end of February £42/10/, and to day it is £44/10/. The rise since December 31 has been £17.

The amount of wool manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour on Saturday was 2713 bales.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 182 tons of wheat and 157 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

BREADSTUFFS.

CANCELLATION OF A CONTRACT.

A test case of some interest to the milling trade has recently been decided in Adelaide. The dispute arose over a contract made on February 9, 1914, for 150 tons of flour at £8/8/6 between a firm of millers, as sellers, and a baker, as purchaser. The terms of delivery were given in the contract as "during 1914 as required." On December 24 there were 77 tons delivered. On January 8, 1915, the baker ordered another load to be sent in, but was informed that the contract was cancelled. The baker thereupon sued the millers for £450 15s 6d for breach of contract. Evidence was put in to show that under custom in the trade, any undelivered portion of the contract was carried into the new year, but the Court held that custom, where it was at variance with the expressed terms of the contract, could not apply, and a nonsuit was given. The decision, it is believed, affects a large number of contracts in the Port Adelaide district.

MANLY GOLF CLUB.

THE PRINCE OF WALES' MEDALS.

The proprietors of "Golf Illustrated" (London), having, in response to an application, courteously forwarded to the Manly Golf Club two of the above medals, it has been decided to offer them for competition on Saturday, May 1, and play the Manly autumn medal record (scratch) and the Manly autumn handicap, both of which events will be open to all members of recognised golf clubs.

The whole of the entrance fees will be remitted to the Prince of Wales' Relief Fund. This fund has been heartily supported by golf clubs, and £1850 has been contributed through the medium of the competitions for the medals, which, though of small intrinsic value, are highly prized by winners.

The above will be the only events of the annual open autumn amateur meeting to be played this year, the remainder of the usual programme being abandoned.

MINING.

A SATISFACTORY WEEK.

METAL MARKET HOLDS FIRM.

At one period of the past week it looked as if it was going to end in a cloud of gloom, and operators started to trim their sails accordingly. But they were bad prophets. The clouds disappeared as quickly as they had gathered, and the Stock Exchange became more cheerful than ever. And it never looked back for the rest of the week, except that Saturday saw values sag a little. There was, however, no significance in that circumstance, because the closing day of the week generally finds out the weak-kneed scrip-holder.

The recovery of the Exchange during the week was largely attributed to the strength of the London metal market. All classes of metals were firmly quoted early in the week, and latter information to hand indicated continued firmness. At the same time, it must be said it is difficult to forecast the trend of metal values. Even experts who it is reasonable to expect would be able to size up the situation, are often completely at sea.

Take the case of Rudolf Wolffkreuger, and Co., of London, specialists in zinc. Writing on December 31 respecting the price of spelter, which then stood at £27/10/, they said in their circular:—"In the present situation, we think that £27 might be considered a fair price for spelter, and we look for the market to fluctuate on either side of that figure." Two weeks after that was published, spelter had risen to £34/10/, and at the end of February to £42/10/, whilst today it stands at the unprecedented figure of £44/10/—or £17 higher than what the metal firm in question considered a fair price around which it would fluctuate. That prediction was made 10 weeks ago, and illustrates the difficulty of forecasting the metal market.

Saturday's business, as is mostly the case at the close of the week, was on a limited scale, with prices sagging in some cases and holding steady in the others.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

LONDON, March 13.

MINING NOTES.

The Ratrut Tin Dredging Company, N.L., has been placed on the official list of the Sydney Stock Exchange. This, the first "pup" of the Malaya Tin Corporation, has an authorised capital of £100,000 in 100,000 shares of £1 each. The subscribed capital consists of 40,000 shares (vendors) paid to £1 each, and 40,000 (public) paid to 10/, leaving 18,000 held in reserve.

The following telegram, dated March 12, has been received from the manager of the Hampden-Cloncurry copper mines:—Hampden mine, No. 3 shaft, 350ft level, north-east drive, off west crosscut, in 21ft, value 3½ per cent. to 8 per cent., average about 6 per cent.

According to a cablegram received from Mr. W. F. MacKenzie, manager of the North Tambun Tin Mines, the output for February was 13 tons of tin oxide.

The dredgemaster of the Associated Gold-dredging Company reports:—After cleaning out the paddock, dredging was started on the solid face. We have now got the main bottom all across the face. The wash-up on the 17th inst. will not indicate the value of the flat, but the following week we should be on good gold. The dredge and all machinery are working well.

Writing on February 14, Mr. D. H. Edmonds, manager of the dredge of the Umeri Gold, Ltd., in the Philippines, says:—"But for having the misfortune to get the ladder-lifting gear struck by a log that came down with the flood when we were shifting over the rip at Singauan on January 30, another week from now would have put us on the claims. Although this accident delayed progress, no material damage was done to the dredge, which doubtless by now is well on the claims."

CRICKET.

FOUR BATSMEN PASS THE CENTURY.

NORTH SYDNEY AND UNIVERSITY DRAW.

Batsmen made the most of the good wickets on Saturday, and three of them—Barbour, Bardsley, and E. A. Bull—scored over the century. Chamberlain, 93 not out from the previous Saturday, carried his total to 109. The results of the first sectional round put Waverley in the B division, Sydney from B to A, Central Cumberland from C to B, and Balmain to C. North Sydney and University will have to meet again; and if Western Suburbs can beat their next opponents—Sydney—there is a possibility of that club going to the top of the list.

Following are the results of the games:—

North Sydney, five (declared) for 371, and University, seven for 279, played a draw.

Western Suburbs, 266, defeated Waverley, 151 and four for 99, on first innings by 115 runs.

Glebe, 425, defeated Gordon, 350, on first innings by 75 runs.

Sydney, 223 and none for 11, defeated Balmain, 102 and 127, by 10 wickets.

Central Cumberland, 320, defeated Middle Harbour, 276, on first innings by 44 runs.

Petersham, 230 and four for 66, defeated Redfern, 191, on first innings by 48 runs.

THE HONOUR LIST.

BATTING.

E. A. Bull, 119.
W. Bardsley, 115.
L. W. Chamberlain, 109* (completed).
E. P. Barbour, 103.
D. Taylor, 78.
C. Kelleway, 77.
R. B. Minnett, 65.
A. Punch, 50*.
L. Berry, 50.
* Not out.

BOWLING.

T. J. E. Andrews, eight for 111.
L. W. Pye, five for 64.
B. Shortland, five for 100.
D. A. Gee, four for 64.
L. Wall, four for 80.

At North Sydney Oval a drawn game resulted, though the local eleven would possibly have had a chance of a minor win had they not continued their innings for about 25 minutes. North Sydney carried the total to 371 for five wickets, when A. J. Hopkins applied the closure. Chamberlain went to 109 (his first century in first grade cricket), and Punch to 50. The University innings was commenced at 2.50—100 minutes to bat. Farrar started well by scoring 13 out of 19, and was then run out through some smart work by Chamberlain and Long (the wicket-keeper). Barbour and Lamrock gave a neat display of batting for the second wicket, putting on 68 in 65 minutes, the latter then being caught at straight hit. Gregg contributed a bright 30, made in 25 minutes. Barbour's was the fifth wicket to fall, the University champion having made 103 (16 fours) out of 138 in 135 minutes. Minnett called him for an almost impossible third run, and he could not regain the crease. Barbour, though hardly at his best, showed fine form, particularly in leg strokes. He was, however, twice missed in the slips off L. A. Minnett; the first—a difficult chance—at 63. R. B. Minnett knocked up 65 in an hour in the closing stages, hitting two sixes and nine fours. Seven wickets (B. Long and Chamberlain two each) had fallen for 279 when stumps were drawn. B. Long was most successful in keeping down the runs, and smart fielding also assisted in that respect.

Western Suburbs had no difficulty in scoring a 2-point win over Waverley, they finishing with 115 runs to the good on the first innings. Indeed, at one period of the game—when Waverley started their second innings so disastrously, four wickets having fallen for 35—it seemed as if the Western side would secure the maximum points, but by steadiness and stonewalling Waverley managed to keep at the wicket until stumps were drawn. Saturday's play generally showed a decided improvement over that of the opening day. Western Suburbs' first innings, although not productive of anything outstanding, was bright and interesting. The top score, 36, was reached by Taylor and Reid; both showed aggressiveness and versatility. The former hit two sixes (both in the same over), and three fours, and was dismissed from an easy catch taken by Gregory. Included in Reid's strokes was a very fine six, hit off Pite. Other good innings were those of P. W. Docker (35) and K. B. Docker (34). Waverley opened their second innings in very poor form; Carter, Kippax, Callaway, and Davis returning from the crease with only 16 runs scored between them. But Pite and Jones saved a three-point win. They put up the two highest scores of the afternoon, the left-hander knocking up 41, and his partner two runs fewer. Callaway brought off three good catches.

In response to Gordon's 350 Glebe compiled 425, which provided the spectators at Chatswood Oval with a brilliant exhibition of batting, and the Gordon men with a disagreeable surprise. Bardsley and Kelleway opened the innings, and put up a fine stand, which realised 170 runs for the first wicket. The rate of scoring was remarkably fast, the first 100 occupying 45 minutes, and the second century was on the board in 96 minutes. Kelleway was out first, being clean bowled by Shortland after an excellent display. He scored 77 runs in 85 minutes, hitting eight fours and two sixes, and did not give a semblance of a chance. Bardsley, who scored 115 runs, played in his best form, being especially good on the leg side; but he gave one easy chance to M'Lean when 72, at square leg. Included in his score (115) were 15 fours and two sixes, which occupied 110 minutes. The Glebe colt, Berry, again played a fine innings, scoring 50 in 30 minutes. He hit five fours and three sixes, and showed good strokes on both sides of the wicket, batting with great freedom. Taylor (78), while playing slowly until the necessary runs were scored, soon opened out in good style, hitting 14 fours and one six. There were no fewer than 270 runs scored from boundary strokes during the afternoon, including 54 fours and nine sixes. Gordon tried six bowlers, Gee (four for 64) and Shortland (five for 100) meeting with the most success. Gordon's fielding was only moderate, C. Trumper and Boyce being the exceptions.

Sydney gained a very decisive victory over Balmain at Birchgrove Oval, winning by an innings and six runs. With seven wickets down for 192 runs Sydney continued, but the remaining batsmen only succeeded in raising the total to 223, which left Balmain with 122 runs to get to save a three-points defeat. Love and Gordon opened the second innings of the local players, and compiled 37 before a separation was effected. A rot then set in, for which Grimmett and Coffey were responsible, five wickets falling for three runs. The prospects of Balmain saving an innings defeat brightened considerably when Seldon and Jones became associated. Jones contributed 42, with a good all round display, before he fell a victim to Toby; and Seldon knocked up 24 before he was caught. The innings closed for 127, leaving Sydney seven runs to secure an outright victory. Toby, three for 33; Coffey, three for 23; and Grimmett, three for 50; secured the bowling honours for Sydney.

Petersham, for the second time this season, defeated Redfern on the first innings. The margin on Saturday being 48 runs. Redfern's innings occupied 178 minutes for 191 runs—slow cricket. Andrews captured eight wickets for 111, the majority of his victims falling through their impetuous methods. The best partnership was 43 for the fourth wicket, by Foster and Rix. These two played solid cricket for 38 and 29, respectively. The former was bowled by Andrews, and Rix was stumped off Norton's pads. Thatcher (30), and O'Connor (29 not out), also batted ably. Scott and Sedgers bowled accurately, sending down 29 overs from the Paddington end at a cost of 57 runs. The fielding was fairly good, but one or two chances were allowed to drop. Sedgers made a brilliant effort in disposing of Adams. Petersham had 45 minutes to bat in their second innings, and lost four for 66.

The game at Parramatta ended in a win for Central Cumberland by 44 runs on the first innings. The feature of Middle Harbour's innings was the excellent batting display given by E. A. Bull, who scored 119 by sound and fearless play. He remained at the wickets until joined by the last man, and was then caught by Cranney. The bowling honours were secured by Pye, who took five wickets for 64 runs. Central Cumberland in their second attempt lost two wickets for 53.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The high pressure which has been operating over the eastern districts for the past few days has moved a little over the normal distance, and is at present centrally situated over the capital of the Dominion.

The Antarctic disturbance which has been operating over Western Australia during the 48 hours ended at 9 a.m. on Saturday has made a rather rapid movement and is now to the south of Tasmania.

Consequently with this rapid movement, the chances of rain in the southern districts are considerably diminished, but there is still a likelihood of some scattered showers.

ROYAL SHOW.

SATISFACTORY ENTRIES.

For the forthcoming Royal Show in every principal section the number of exhibitors who have entered is very satisfactory. The secretary states that, despite all the advertisements, public notices, circulars, and cards sent out by the thousand, some would-be exhibitors seem to overlook the fact that entries must close on certain dates. This year fully 200 entries had to be refused, and the entry fees returned, because the exhibitors did not take the trouble to discover when the closing dates occurred. Applicants for schedules and entry forms are still coming in every day. The result of all this is that intending exhibitors are disappointed, and the show suffers to the extent of losing their exhibits.

The feature in the horse section at this show will be the light horses. All the contests will be exceedingly interesting, for there are horses from all over Australia engaged. A drop in stud horses was anticipated: these were very slack last spring, and it is quite evident that especially in regard to draught stallions the market was over-supplied. There are, however, 33 draught stallions in one class, and there are fine classes of mares. Blood horses are represented by half a score, but stud trotters are not so numerous. The entries in the jumping events run to 40 in a class, and every one is well filled. The same can be said of the trotting contests. Altogether there are 1100 entries in the horse section.

There is a drop of about 100 in cattle, mainly owing to the bad season and that most of the regular exhibitors had been tempted by the high price for young stud stock, and had sold out. In beef Shorthorns, however, there is a magnificent entry, exceeding that of last year, and there are altogether about 800 cattle in the show.

Sheep are just equal to last year, but there is a striking increase in pigs, mainly owing to new exhibitors coming in from Victoria.

There are almost 2000 birds entered for the show, including poultry and all other sections. This is just about the same number as last year, the total being 17 birds less. All the principal attractions will be as strong as ever.

The Royal Show will begin on March 30, and will be officially opened the next day by the Governor-General. Lady Helen Munro Ferguson will attend the opening ceremony, and the Governor of New South Wales and Lady Edeline Strickland will also be present.

RAILWAY MISMANAGEMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I wish to bring under the notice of your readers one instance out of many of the inconvenience to which the farmers generally are subjected by the mismanagement of the railways. Last week I ordered 30 bags of seed wheat from Bathurst to be delivered to me at Brewongle Railway Station. The wheat was put in the bottom of a big truck, and 20 bales of wool (consigned to Sydney) were loaded on top of it. The truck was left at the siding at Brewongle, and I had first to unload the wool, then take my wheat out, and reload the wool again. Could there be a worse instance of blundering by the officials? This is only one instance of many of a similar kind that have happened to me and my neighbours. I trust you will publish this letter in the hope that we may be relieved of some of the disadvantages under which we labour.

I am, etc.,

HARRY MURRAY.

Brewongle, March 10.

RIFLE CLUB RESERVES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Owing, I believe, to certain remarks attributed to Mr. Carmichael when speaking at Drummoyne and Balmain, an idea has got about that a man who takes the oath of allegiance when enrolling in a rifle club is liable to be called upon for service outside Australia. This suggestion—which is clearly wrong—has done much to check enrolment, and has made men who had agreed to join clubs withdraw before it came to the time to enrol. It is very desirable that it should be made known that a man who takes the oath of allegiance does not thereby in any way make himself liable to be called upon to leave Australia, but only to fight in Australia in its defence, which everyone is liable to be called upon to do. I am, etc.,

W. A. WINDEYER.

NOT ONE TWINGE.

I want you to feel the same confidence in me as the patients who daily fill my rooms. They know that when they come here for an extraction they will feel no pain whatever. They have proved it. I extract any number of teeth in one sitting, and will make you a present of £5 if you feel the slightest pain. I do not prick the gums, but leave them in a healthy, natural condition, and my system does not affect the heart. I extract teeth for children of 3 years and patients of 80. I give a written guarantee with all my Platework and Fillings; this guarantee stands good for 5 years. If a tooth should break off or a filling should fail I repair the mishap free and quite cheerfully. Come into my waiting room and converse with actual patients, and so get first-hand knowledge. Many of these people have proved for themselves that I do none but the best work. An examination of your teeth will cost you nothing, and involve no obligation to have work done. I will tell you candidly if treatment be necessary or not. OPEN TILL 6 P.M. DAILY (SATS. included). UNTIL 9 P.M. FRIDAYS.

SPECIAL FEATURES IN SMART BLOUSES

FOR EASTER WILL BE SHOWN ALL THIS WEEK

Every Lady in Sydney should visit our Blouse Showroom this week. The energy of our Buyers in assembling the Autumn Styles has been rewarded by a Blouse Assortment the equal of which will not be found in Sydney.

TAILORING UNEXCELLED. TAILORING UNEXCELLED.

Ladies' Tailoring demands in a superlative degree the hand of an expert. Our new tailor, Mr. J. F. Dabbs (late of Bull's-chambers, Moore-street), is exceptionally gifted in this respect, giving those subtle touches to a costume which impart so much elegance and refinement to the finished appearance. Little details, unnoticed by the ordinary tailor, receive his special attention, making the completed garment one which it is a pleasure to wear—an outward embodiment of your own personality.

And just at this opportune time we have received a big parcel of suitings—a broad, comprehensive variety of patterns and materials, suitable to every taste. They are displayed in the department ready for your inspection. But time is pressing for those who desire Easter Costumes. The workrooms are getting busier and busier. We advise an early call, and select from full stocks.

SITTING DOWN "HOPING" NEVER BROUGHT VALUES TO ANY STORE.

To use the words of Artemus Ward, "The chap who's sure ez things will kum round iz the feller who finds the way to make em do so. So long ez he doesn't jist sit down an' hope ez they'll oblige of thairselves he's sel rite." Even in piping times of peace a wise buyer doesn't expect that the good values will come his way, or "oblige of thairselves." And in War Time they want the helping hand more than ever. But have not failed to reach out and help the Good Values to come this way. Otherwise how should it be possible to offer such unusual values in

AUTUMN AND WINTER

DRESS TWEEDS.

To begin with, best 60in (full tailoring width) WEST OF ENGLAND TWEEDS, that would be 10/6 if bought in the ordinary way, are only 5/11 PER YARD. It's a choice little parcel of Browns and Greys, in Checks and Stripes. The Grey Pin-head Checks are ultra smart.

HEAVIER TWEEDS, 56in WIDE, in Donegal Designs, Greys and Fawns. SNOW'S PRICE, 5/11 YD.

FRIEZE TWEEDS, in Brown, Grey, and Heather, Checks and Stripes, 56in wide. Easily worth 5/11. SNOW'S PRICE, 4/11 YD.

TWEEDS IN GRANITE EFFECTS, 56in WIDE, in Brown, Grey, and Heathers. SNOW'S PRICE, 4/6 YD.

"DUNNEGAL" TWEEDS, also Black and Grey Checked Friezes, 42in to 49in wide. SNOW'S PRICE, 3/11 YD.

TWEEDS IN SPORTING CHECKS, Black and Grey and Donegal effects, in Brown, Grey, and Fawn, 42in wide. SNOW'S PRICE, 2/6 YD.

A TABLE OF FANCY TWEED AT 2/11.

In Donegals, Checks, and Frieze effects, in all colours, among which are Brown, Blue, Purple, Green, Grey, Khaki, Grey and White, Black and White, 40in to 42in wide. SNOW'S PRICE, 2/11 YD.

Other Popular-priced Tweeds that we are cutting hard are Checks in Grey, Brown, Heather, Green, Blue, Khaki, Red, Navy, Purple, and Tan. If bought wholesale to-day we should have to sell at 3/6, but Snow's price is only 2/6½ YD.

And still others at 2/1½, 1/11½, 1/9½, 1/6½, 1/3½, 1 1½ yd. Which is "some assortment," considering the untoward condition of the market.
